

Drastic Policy Change

Would Bring on Longer Period In the Affairs Of Europe

WASHINGTON, June 3—(AP)—United States policies toward Europe are undergoing a drastic change of direction. The new policy line calls for deeper and more permanent involvement of this country in European affairs.

That is the central fact which stands out of Secretary Acheson's reports and actions here this week following his return from the cold war strategy talks with Western foreign ministers at London.

It is also the fact which seems likely from here on to be a major influence in the shaping of foreign policy debates in Congress and the country at large. An understanding of the new policy direction, in the opinion of top administration officials, is essential to grasp what Acheson, Defense Secretary Johnson and President Truman now propose to do in terms of future American commitments.

Proposed Pooling Plan
Two steps of the utmost importance are now shaping up for action by the administration and almost certainly for eventual debate in Congress.

1. The U. S. government is preparing to take the lead in pooling the armed forces of the West into what Secretary Acheson has now called "balanced collective forces." Assuming Congress and the country support it, this will go a long way toward accomplishing what the joint chiefs of staff chairman, General Omar Bradley, called for several weeks ago in a speech at Chicago—a sacrifice of national sovereignty in the interest of international strength.

For the United States it will mean no longer splitting defense funds about equally three ways on the theory that the United States thus gets the balance of forces it needs for its own defense. Rather, this country would spend more on the Air Force and Navy, relatively less on the Army, to carry out a strategic role concerned with defending not the United States alone but all North America and Western Europe.

2. A little noticed section of Acheson's report to Congress Monday discloses that the government is planning a sweeping change in its economic relationships with Western Europe. It is hoping to accomplish this in such a manner that it can maintain close economic cooperation even with the so-called "neutral" countries like Switzerland and Sweden.

Ask New Association
Acheson said the United States intends to establish, by invitation, a new relationship with the 18-member organization for European economic cooperation in Paris. Yesterday the council of the OEEC, exactly as Acheson had predicted, voted to ask the United States and Canada to establish this new association.

There is a third field of deep commitments on the part of the United States in which the machinery has already been agreed on but the consequences of which are not yet entirely clear. That is the field of expansion of the North Atlantic treaty operation. The treaty began largely as an American guarantee to Western Europe against Russian aggression and as a basis for arms aid to Europe.

That was little more than a year ago. Today it has become a frame which the London meetings decided to fill in with permanent machinery for seeking close cooperation among the member countries on political and economic as well as military affairs.

Acheson himself put the problem and his solution for it in a paragraph in his report to Congress. He said:

"We now see that to go forward we must pursue the course of cooperative association—including partnership in the North American and Western European community of nations, for none of the complex and baffling problems which lie ahead will yield to purely national action."

This appears to be heading in the direction—along way off—of some kind of Atlantic union or other association, of national states into a supra-national government. In fact, there are some among Acheson's advisors who believe that the present state of the world the West has no choice except to move that way.

Bishop Welles To Confirm

Be Here Thursday For Episcopal Church Service

The Rev. Edward R. Welles, recently consecrated bishop of the West Missouri Episcopal diocese on April 19, will be in Sedalia Thursday for the confirmation service at the Calvary Episcopal church, Broadway at Ohio avenue.

Bishop Welles

The bishop's father, the late Canon Samuel G. Welles, was an Episcopal priest, and his grandfather may have passed along to the grandson more than the name he bears, for the first Edward Randolph Welles was the third bishop of Wisconsin.

In college days, the Bishop's principal sport was track. At Princeton University, where he was given an A.B. degree in 1928, he was captain of the freshmen and varsity cross-country teams. He was also a member of the Princeton-Cornell track team which ran in England in 1926 against Oxford and Cambridge Universities. He was a member of the Princeton track team three years.

Now, however, Bishop and Mrs. Welles are "keen on mountain climbing." Together they have climbed the highest in New England, Mt. Washington in the White Mountains; the highest in the East, Mt. Mitchell in North Carolina; and the highest in the United States, Mt. McKinley in California. Mrs. Welles has climbed the highest in the Alps, Mt. Blanc. In addition to outdoor sports Welles has a hobby of collecting autographs. He also paints a little.

After his undergraduate days at Princeton, he obtained a B.A. degree from Oxford University in 1931, and an M.A. in 1934. Between Oxford degrees he attended the General Theological seminary, training school for Episcopal priests, being graduated in 1931. He received an S.T.B. degree in 1932. He became a priest in 1931.

Following his ordination Bishop Welles was rector of the Trinity Church in Woodbridge, N.J., from 1931 to 1934.

He then became chaplain of St. Mark's school in Southborough, Mass., for a two year period. He went to All Saints Cathedral in Albany as Dean in 1936 and at twenty-nine was the youngest priest ever to become a dean.

Bishop Welles came to Kansas City from Buffalo, New York, where he had been dean of St. Paul's Cathedral since 1944. A big man, six foot three inches tall, Bishop Welles impresses people with a prodigious memory for names, his friendly informality, and his fast rule that every sermon he gives must not be longer than twenty minutes. Valley is indeed fortunate to secure the services of this outstanding churchman.

Galveston is Flooded by Rain Deluge

Water Three and Half Feet Deep In Business Area

GALVESTON, Tex., June 3—(AP)—The biggest rain in 50 years flooded this island resort and port today. Galveston emerged soaked and muddy—but lucky.

The flat island's worst drenching since the deadly hurricane of 1900 left no known dead or injured. Merchants, busily swabbing out their stores late today, scaled down an early estimate of $1,000,000 damage to about $400,000.

By 5 p. m., the flood waters drained away and a blazing afternoon sun steamed the sandy island bone dry. Traffic was back to normal. Sidewalk debris was about the only remaining sign that the city had been a lake for about eight hours.

The rain measured 14.21 inches on the western edge of town. High tide at 8:17 a. m. added to the flood conditions. The rain was within .14 inch of the all-time 24-hour record—recorded during the 1900 storm in which 5,000 to 7,000 persons died.

Water 3 1/2 feet deep was left standing in the 16-block business district after nine hours of wind-driven rain clogged storm sewers.

Nothing moved through the streets, except determined men, wallowing to work in their shorts. Ground floors of all businesses and most homes were inundated.

But skies cleared about noon. By 2 p. m. most of the business area and paved residential streets had drained.

There wasn't much danger of loss of life. This city of about 80,000 people is on level ground on the eastern end of a 30-mile-long island. There are few depressions to hold water. A causeway connects the island with the Texas coast.

Sai Up In Storm
Galveston residents had no alternative but to stay up all night and watch the storm, because thunder kept them awake. Thunder claps like major explosions shook the city while constant lightning illuminated water-filled streets.

"There's no distress, no danger to life," said Tom Mulvaney, of the Galveston News. Mulvaney telephoned from his home, where he was marooned. "It's just that we're water-bound. Every home is surrounded by a moat. There's nothing to do but wait for the water to drain off."

The weather bureau said it was a continuation of torrential rains which flooded Brownsville at Texas' southern tip yesterday. To-day seven inches of rain fell at Port Arthur, up the coast from Galveston on the Louisiana border. The rain was accompanying 61-mile-an-hour winds did minor property damage at Port Arthur.

Streets were flooded briefly at Beaumont, close to Port Arthur, after 3.24 inches fell last night and early today. Heavy rains also drenched several Louisiana and Mississippi areas last night and today. Lake Charles, La., had almost seven inches.

Galveston's downpour began about midnight. Between 6 and 8 a. m. (CST) 7.35 inches fell.

Severe June Drenching
Topical rains, pouring down from bloated thunderclouds, gave many cities from Texas to Ohio their worst June drenching in years.

Lake Charles, La., had 6.23 inches in 24 hours. Brownsville, Tex., 4.99 inches in 24 hours; Chicago, 4.09 inches in 24 hours; Indianapolis, 2.15 inches in six hours; and Lansing, Mich., 2.49 inches in 24 hours.

Forecasters said a belt of thick thunderclouds extended from Galveston north through Arkansas, Mississippi, western Tennessee, western Kentucky, southern Illinois, most of Indiana, all of Ohio and western Pennsylvania. Showers also spread across most of Pennsylvania, western New York and up into New England.

Moisture laden winds from the gulf caused the widespread rains. Forecasters said this warm, moist air "piled up" forming clouds 20,000 feet deep as far north as Chicago and as far west as western Pennsylvania. Cooler air from the north began to "wring" water from these clouds which moved away slowly.

Chicago's rainfall was the heaviest on record for June. Thousands of basements and scores of viaducts were flooded. A Catholic nun was electrocuted in the flooded basement of the nun's home.

Unseasonal cold and snow hit the Rocky mountains. Lander, Wyo., had 6 inches of snow on the ground Saturday morning. Big air reading of 27 degrees and Butte, Mont., 23. Bismark, N. D., had 33 and Land 'O Lakes, Wis., 34.

Cloudy and warm weather prevailed in the southeast.

Believe Father Of 15 Drowned

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 3—(AP)—Shelby Salmon, 49, father of 15 children, is believed to have drowned today.

A son, 8, and a daughter, 3, who were in a boat with him, said their father stood up and fell overboard into the swollen waters of Perche creek near Providence, south of here.

The boy rowed the boat to shore. A search for Salmon, an employee of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railway, continued until dark tonight and will be resumed tomorrow.

Volcano Still Spouts Lava

One Village is Destroyed; Others Partly Wrecked

By Roy Essoyan

HONOLULU, June 3—(AP)—Mauna Loa's eruption—greatest in Hawaii's volcanic history—thundered into its third day today with no sign of abating.

Coast Guard craft stood off the west coast of the island of Hawaii, rescuing persons trapped between the three molten rivers of lava which have reached the sea.

This is the Kona coast of villages and plantations. One village, upper Hookena, has been destroyed. Several others have been partly destroyed by the searing rivers of melted rock.

The lava mowed down and burned telephone poles, cutting communications. So the extent of the destruction and the fate of small parties reported trapped were not known. There were no casualties reported, however.

Great Clouds Of Smoke
Great white plumes of smoke and fumes towered over the 13,680-foot peak. They were clearly visible in Hilo, the main city on the island of Hawaii, 35 miles to the east.

Police Chief Martin of Hilo after a thorough canvass, reported the only confirmed losses were seven homes and 12 uninhabited buildings at Pahoehe and Kahe villages.

Martin said a double check of evacuees confirmed that all residents of these isolated homes had been evacuated. He reported 25 homeless refugees were put up at schools. Others, scattered, may raise the total of homeless to 40. He said there is a possibility that isolated Taro growing communities might have suffered. But that will be impossible to check until the lava cools. Taro is a starchy root widely used as food.

There was no sign that the eruption was abating. Mauna Loa broke loose Thursday night, blowing three major vents in its southwest flank high up its slope.

Confederate Flag On Old Capital

FRANKFORT, Ky., June 3—(AP)—The Confederate flag flew from atop the old state capitol building today for the first time in 88 years. It was Confederate Memorial Day and Jefferson Davis' birth anniversary today, a legal holiday in Kentucky.

The idea of flying the flag today was advanced by a newly organized Confederate club here and put into action by Bayless Hardin, secretary of the Kentucky Historical Society who got Gov. Earl Clements' approval to do it.

The Confederate flag went up on the capitol building on Sept. 4, 1862, when the Confederates took control of Frankfort. It came down in November that year following the union victory at Perryville.

No Settlement Reached In KDRO Strike Situation

No settlement of the strike situation at radio station KDRO, Sedalia, has been reached. Union engineers remain out. The station continues to operate with other engineers at the controls.

Sometime after a short interruption in KDRO service the union men submitted a statement explaining their side of the controversy.

Milton J. Hinkle, owner of the radio station, in a letter addressed to the Sedalia Central Labor Union, says that statement needs clarification. His letter reads as follows:

"Sedalia Central Labor Union R. C. McVey, Jr., President 1111 West Seventh Street Sedalia, Missouri.

"Dear Sir: "Since discussing the strike at radio station KDRO with you several days ago, an article has appeared in the local press, from union sources, that I believe merits clarification.

"The striking engineers at KDRO made numerous demands

Agree to Pool On Coal-Steel

Six European Nations to Form An Alliance

PARIS, June 3—(AP)—Six European countries, but not Britain, agreed today to form a coal-steel alliance to produce the sinews of heavy industry together in peace.

Western Germany and Italy thus were brought into a common economic effort with France, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg for pooled production of basic materials that can be—and have been—turned easily to war production in nationalistic hands.

The union of the ex-enemies in this unique fashion has the blessing of the United States, which has heavily staked the postwar economic reconstruction of Europe, and of the United Nations outside the Soviet orbit.

Britain balked at joining or making any commitment on the plan that will give British industrialists and the labor government something to think about until the final British decision is made.

But the British came forth after the Paris announcement with a Communiqué in London paying tribute to "the bold and far-reaching importance" of the plan.

It was the brain-child of French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman. He launched it without warning May 9 as a proposal to rub out the French and German national barriers on coal and steel.

Schuman surmised that their total joint production could be far greater than the sum of their separate competitive efforts. For example, the industrial Ruhr needs French coal and France needs the Ruhr steel but each put a premium on the materials they exchanged with each other.

It was obvious that Schuman was thinking deeply of French security against German neighbors who have invaded France three times since 1870 and that the combination would serve as a checkmate on any newly rising German militarism.

It was fairly clear, too, that Britain, struggling on an austere domestic level to win back a high place in world trade, was caught by surprise.

Marriage Licenses Issued

Floyd W. Holman and Barbara Lee Smith both of Sedalia, Harry D. Corbett, Sedalia and Deloris I. Knoles, Smithton, and Jerry W. Harlin and Margaret Hampton both of Sedalia.

For changes under their contract but witnesses of high calibre can testify that no demand was really debated at any length, other than the request for more pay.

"As previously stated, KDRO paid the lowest member of this group a guaranteed wage of $60.00 for a forty-hour week, and seldom was the week's payment as low as $80.00. Our pay scale in their contract was more than Columbia, more than Jefferson City—in fact, more than any city in Missouri except the large city districts and excepting Hannibal, which has a 5,000 watt station (KDRO has 250 watts). Many stations in Missouri pay not only less, but considerably less than KDRO Management has lists of engineers asking from fifty to sixty dollars and that amount is made up and sent out by engineering schools and contain many well-experienced men who have long since graduated and

Japanese Reds Rallies Fizzle

TOYKO, Sunday, June 3—(AP)—Japan's Communists, whose big anti-U. S. drive blew up Saturday, faced another fight today—in the national elections.

Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida's Liberal party was expected generally to be the winner. It was his government, backed by the power of the occupation, which caused the Red rallies and "general strike" to fizzle yesterday.

There was no indication of trouble or violence, and no particular reason to believe any would develop.

A swing past Communist headquarters indicated the Reds were taking advantage of the holiday. There were only a few persons around their drag grey building which flaunts a dove of peace across its front.

A heavy downpour of rain started in late morning and threatened to continue. That was expected to further reduce the voting.

Observers predicted an unusually light turnout might reduce the vote of Yoshida's Liberals more than it would other parties.

Soldier is Found Dead in Car

LAWTON, Okla., June 3—(AP)—Pfc. Paul E. Sheppard, 32, a Fort Sill soldier from Hickory, N. C., was found dead in his car parked in a tourist court garage today and the county attorney hunted for foul play.

The cause of his death still is undetermined, county attorney Githen Rhoads said. Fort Sill officials are performing an autopsy and will report to a coroner's jury Monday.

Only minor bruises were found on Sheppard's neck, Rhoads said. The victim's wife found the body, protruding out of the car's door.

Mrs. Sheppard told Rhoads she and her husband drank beer in a nearby tavern throughout last night and later he told her he was hungry.

She said she "hitched a ride" into Lawton, returned—without finding food—in a cab, and found her husband dead.

Mrs. Sheppard was freed under $1,500 bond last month on a joint charge—with a Negro—of attempted burglary at a farm near here.

Fewer Die in Violent Accidents

Fifteen fewer persons died in violent accidents during the first day of this non-holiday week-end, compared with the same period of the Memorial Day week-end.

This week-end death toll stood at 97 late Saturday night (11 p. m. Eastern Standard Time), almost 30 hours after the count began.

The 97 included 50 traffic victims, 18 drownings, and 29 deaths in miscellaneous mishaps.

By comparison, the toll last week-end was 112 at this stage. The 112 included 83 traffic deaths, 16 drownings and 13 miscellaneous.

The Associated Press survey, from 6 p. m. (local time) Friday to midnight Tuesday, is intended to provide a comparison of the violent death total of an ordinary week-end with that of a holiday period.

City Council Meets Monday Night

Dinner Meet By Chamber Of Commerce

Noel Tweet In Talk on Progress In Past Decade

The Chamber of Commerce held its first monthly dinner meeting Friday evening in the Ambassador room of the Bothwell hotel with Noel Tweet, out-going president, presiding.

The Vaughan sisters of Clarkburg sang several numbers preceding the meeting with Miss Lillian Fox as their accompanist. The girls were accompanied by their parents.

Ellsworth Green, secretary-manager of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce attended the meeting and gave a short talk, commenting on his interests here and the growth the city has undergone in the past few years.

Mr. Tweet gave a report of the first portion of this year. He told the group of the progress the Chamber and Sedalia have made in the past decade and brought out the fact that the new industries that have been brought into Sedalia have assisted greatly in the stabilizing Sedalia's business climb and the large payroll increases.

After More Industries
He mentioned the large industries that have located here and said there were others that might possibly locate in the Sedalia area.

He gave a brief resume of the Air Academy project and told of the progress in endeavor to secure it and its relation and possibilities of being located at the former Sedalia air field near Knob Noster.

He explained that the enormous task of sorting out the various locations has taken a long time and the number will be broken down to two or three places by this fall.

President Tweet turned his gaze over to the new president, Harold Seaberg. Mr. Tweet thanked the Chamber board for its cooperation and said he would continue to do anything he could to promote Sedalia and the Knob Noster as location for the proposed Air Academy.

Following the report Tweet was presented a pen and pencil desk set.

After the installation of Seaberg, the new president asked for reports from various committee chairmen John Zander, Chamber secretary told of the efforts that were being made to enumerate more people for the census. He said that it is expected to break slightly over 20,000. Robert Overstreet gave a report on the circus that the Chamber will sponsor and A. W. Haller told of the purpose of the trash receptacles that are placed over the city's downtown area.

Prepare for a Religious Census
A meeting of volunteers to assist in the religious census of Sedalia will be held this afternoon, 2:00 o'clock, at the First Baptist church, Sixth street and Lamine avenue, for the purpose of receiving instructions and materials.

This census, sponsored by the Ministerial Alliance, is intended to complete the religious census held in the public schools several months ago. All the churches are invited to provide volunteers who will make the door to door call for information this week, June 4 to 11. Facts gained will be made available to all the churches and should be particularly valuable since it is expected that this will be the most complete religious census taken in Sedalia in recent years.

Thye For Attitude Over Row

Wants Senators Of GOP, to Fix It as to Charges From McCarthy

WASHINGTON, June 3—(AP)—Republican Senator Thye of Minnesota, declaring the Communists-in-government row is "destroying the government," today proposed a conference of all GOP senators to thresh out a "responsible" party position on the issue.

Senator Miliken of Colorado, chairman of the Republican conference, said in reply to questions about the suggestion that he would be glad to call such a meeting if he gets a formal request. Thye indicated he will submit one.

Miliken noted, however, that the Senate Republican policy committee had debated the matter and decided against taking a stand regarding the charges of Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) that there are a lot of Communists and fellow travelers in the state department.

Thye joined six other Republican senators two days ago in issuing a declaration of conscience which assailed "certain elements" of their party for "selfish political exploitation of fear, bigotry, ignorance and intolerance."

Critical On Inquiry
Drafted by Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, the declaration did not call McCarthy by name. It was clear, however, that the seven Republicans had him in mind. The group also sharply criticized the role of the Truman administration in the Senate investigation of McCarthy's accusations.

Discussing the situation with newsmen today, Thye also suggested that President Truman call McCarthy and member of the Senate inquiry committee to the White House. Others in the government concerned with the matter also should be summoned, Thye added.

"He (Mr. Truman) should place them all on their honor and have an understanding that there would be no leaks of confidential information," Thye declared. "Then he should lay open the files so they can get to the bottom of this situation."

The President has opened to Senate investigators the state department loyalty files on 81 persons accused by McCarthy. But he has rejected McCarthy's demands that the FBI so-called "raw" files also be made available, on the ground it would cripple the FBI, wreck the federal loyalty program, and smear innocent people.

"Put Doubts At Rest"
They said that if Mr. Truman would open all the files, the inquiry committee "could make a report to the people that would lay all doubts to rest."

Thye said he did not mean to suggest that McCarthy has done the country a disservice.

"In fact, I believe he has done his country a service by pinpointing a situation which has led many Americans to lose confidence in the loyalty of some government employees. It is his method to which I object."

Commenting on Thye's suggestions, McCarthy said in a statement:

"I am encouraged by the fact that after four months of complete lack of help on my part in the fight to expose Communists in the government, Senator Thye finally shows some interest."

"Yesterday I was worried by the indication that he had joined with his Democratic colleague, Senator Humphrey, in a bi-partisan move to protect the Communists and the perverts in the state department."

"Today, however, his new and heretofore unthought-of suggestion that all the files be opened indicates deep thought and study on the subject."

In another development, McCarthy fired a new blast at the Democratic-controlled Senate foreign relations subcommittee which is investigating his charges.

for today's woman

By Frances Sagaloff at Sage's

"I AM GOING TO A JUNE WEDDING, and I just don't know what to wear"—this is heard several times a day. If it is informal, you'll find one of the nicer sheer cotton dresses quite appropriate. Beautiful floral voiles worn over just the right slip is lovely and cool—satin striped voile in pastels is very feminine. Most of them have full skirts that are particularly flattering to the small waistline. To complete your outfit, wear a pretty bunch of flowers at the waist, a white hat, shoes and gloves. Now that tinted shoes are available, have them match your dress. Triple sheers, and nylon sheers are in the shops now and they are exquisite. You'll find most of the triple sheers in dark shades and for those of you who like to wear dark accessories they are especially smart.

D. A. R. Dedicates Memorial Avenue Cemetery Entry

Osage Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held a very interesting historical and significant dedicatory ceremony at the Memorial Avenue cemetery on Saturday morning, May 27, at 10:30 a. m.

A bronze tablet was embedded in the east stone entrance pylon, bearing the following brief message: The Insignia at the top of the tablet, which is a spinning wheel and distaff surrounded by 13 stars signifying the 13 original colonies, and these words: "Memorial Avenue, Osage Chapter, D.A.R., 1950." This ceremony was a culmination of an endeavor begun by the chapter 30 years ago in 1920, during the Regency of Mrs. Henry Harris, who was a much loved Regent and a fine leader in all patriotic, civil, historical and religious activities of this community.

The dedication ceremony was presided over by the present regent, Mrs. A. L. Walter, this being a successful culmination of her administration. A delegation of members were present for this occasion.

In opening the program, Mrs. Walter said in part: "Osage Chapter D. A. R. met this morning to dedicate this marker and this Memorial Avenue, in grateful recognition of the significance of this sacred Memorial Avenue to our cemetery. May it keep alive an appreciation of our heritage from the past."

Plan of Years Realized

This has been a gigantic task through the years and necessitated the expenditure of a great deal of time and energy, as well as a large amount of money. Miss Nina Harris, daughter of the late Mrs. H. W. Harris, who originated this endeavor, a past regent herself and chairman for the program. She told of the early struggles in accomplishing the beautifying of the south entrance to the cemetery and of the report of the late Mesdames Sally Potter Sneed and E. A. Wood, who were vital factors on the original committee for this work, and both members of the Cemetery Board. This board was unanimously delighted with the proposed plans of the D. A. R. and pledged all cooperation in this.

At the Christmas meeting of the Chapter at the home of Mrs. Frank S. Leach December 17, 1938, reports of the progress of the Memorial Avenue were made and enthusiastically received by the Chapter at that time. Mrs. George Bichsel, who had been a member of the committee since its inception, was made the chairman for this committee, and she has served efficiently and continuously to the present time in leadership of this work. Mrs. Bichsel was the next speaker presented and she gave many interesting and important facts in regard to this project, especially emphasizing the splendid cooperation of the Cemetery Board, the city council, who changed the street name from Brown street to Memorial Avenue. Tribute was paid to the artistic idea to beautify and dignify this cemetery approach.

Mrs. Henry Harris, then regent, told of her plans that the Daughters might plant trees and shrubs along the proposed Circle Drive, in memory of relatives that they wished to honor. This was done through the following years. Miss Nina Harris spoke of the appropriateness of Osage Chapter's united efforts in making possible this beautiful entry to our cemetery and of the satisfaction of the completion of this work after all these years of loving thoughts and plans.

and beautiful landscaping laid out by the late Hillard Brewster, who was connected with the Missouri State Highway for many years. He supervised much of the planting of the avenue, which today has now grown into a real beauty spot.

Mrs. Bichsel paid high tribute to Mr. R. C. Parkhurst, custodian of Crown Hill cemetery for his untiring interest in caring for this avenue, he assisted in the planting of trees and shrubs and supervised the hauling of tanks of water to preserve the young plants and trees during dry weather. He rendered assistance all along the way. The city council rendered great service in building the needed culverts and the council had rapped either side of the ditches along the circle drive in order to properly drain off any excess of water from the driveways.

One hundred feet of iron fencing was bought and placed at the entrance of this stretch of roadway. Beautiful elm and pine trees and much fine shrubbery now makes a beautiful vista. Wild roses are planted there, together with other lovely plantings. It takes years for trees to grow, as well as care afterwards. Every one going to the cemetery is invited to drive through this beautiful avenue and enjoy the result of 30 years of care of the Osage Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution of this city.

Top Racing Honors To Citation

Famous Horse Broke World's Record for Mile and Became Top Money Winner

By RUSS NEWLAND
ALBANY, Calif., June 3—(AP)—Citation, great star of the Calumet farm, galloped into horse racing history today when he broke the world's record for the mile and became the leading money winner of all time. The time was 1:33-3/5, two fifths better than the old mark.

The brilliant five-year-old son of Bull Lea set his two sensational marks in the $20,000 added Golden Gate mile. The victory lofted his total earnings in 36 races to $924,630. Stytle held the old money winning record of $918,485, established in 131 races.

Citation's new mile record broke the 1.34 clocking set by his stablemate Coaltown last Aug. 20 at Washington Park, Chicago.

Bolero was Second
Bolero, who set the world's 3/4 of a mile record of 1:08 1/2 here a week ago, ran second, three quarters of a length behind Citation. Bolero set all the pace until his conqueror took command in the home stretch.

On Trust, leading California-bred horse, was third and Old Rockport was fourth.

Steve Brooks, contract rider for Calumet, gave Citation a heady race. Breaking evenly with the field, he hustled his mount into second place behind Bolero as they came down before the stands. A near capacity crowd of 20,391, practically all of them pulling for the big bay horse, shouted and cheered as he kept after the leader around every turn.

In the back stretch, the fleet Bolero opened a three and one-half length lead on Citation. The Calumet horse, however, was running easily.

Responded With Power
As they moved into the far turn, jockey Brooks urged Citation lightly and the big boy responded with falling power. He moved up on Bolero until his nose was just about even with the latter's hind quarters.

The distance separating them shortened from then on as Citation charged relentlessly to go on even terms just as they headed into the stretch.

Citation packed top weight of 128 pounds. Bolero was second high with 123 pounds. Former national champion Johnny Longder was aboard Bolero.

The first two horses were the only ones over in contention.

The double honors came to Citation after he had been defeated in his five previous starts. Altogether, he now has won 29 and lost 7 races.

Three-to-Five Favorite
Citation went off as the three-to-five favorite in spite of his previous losses. He rewarded backers with $3.20, $2.10 and $2.10. Bolero paid $2.20 and $2.20. On Trust paid $2.70.

The victory today netted Citation $14,550.

Bolero's time for the quarter was 22 1/2; for the half 44 1/2; for the five-eighths 44 1/2 and for the three-quarters 1:07 3/4. That is a faster time than his world record for the three quarters but it is not a record.

New Softball Park Finished In Smithton

Park was Built From Contributions Of Community

One of the finest softball parks in this section has recently been lighted and completed at Smithton. It is located south of the Smithton school. The park was built from contributions by the people of Smithton and from proceeds from activities held in the town.

A large crowd was on hand for the organization of the various teams at the park last Thursday night, in preparation for the opening this Tuesday night.

Several juvenile boys and girls teams are being planned and the main feature for the summer will be a men's community softball league, composed of six teams, all from the home community. The teams organized at a mass meeting of all players recently, will play at the park on Tuesday and Thursday nights of each week.

Captains and Teams
Six well known Smithton ball players were named to be captains of the groups. The captains and teams are: Elroy "Jiggs" Lempele of Cubs; Paul "Pete" Selken, Braves; Sheldon "Squirt" Smith, Phillies; Harry "Peg" Pace, Cardinals; Floyd "Tom" Schlusing and "Dee" Hoehns, Pirates and Ralph Lewis, Dodgers.

Each Captain will have 14 players on his roster, who vary in age from high school freshmen to men of 50 years of age. Each captain plans to use his entire team each evening they play.

Large Crowd Expected
The league opens Tuesday night and one of the largest crowds ever to attend a sporting event in Smithton is expected to be on hand. The week's schedule is: Tuesday night—juvenile game at 7:00 p.m.; Phillies vs. Cardinals, at 8:00 o'clock; Braves play Dodgers at 9:00 o'clock.

On Thursday night, a juvenile game will be played at 8:00 o'clock, and at 9:00 o'clock, the Cubs will face the Pirates.

Knights of Columbus Game was Rained Out

The next game for the Knights will be at Ionia on Tuesday evening. This game will be a Tri-County League game. League games will be played on Tuesday and Friday nights.

PELHAM MANOR, N. Y., June 3—(P)—Alf Holmberg of Sweden, now wearing the colors of the University of Tennessee, today won the special James A. Norton one mile run by overtaking favored Fred Wilt about 100 yards off the finish to register a 4:15.1 in the New York Athletic Club spring games.

H. Browning Ross of Villanova, finished third and John Joe Barry of Ireland also representing Villanova, finished fourth.

Legion League Opens Today

The Sedalia Junior American Legion team, sponsored by Post 16 and W. A. Smith Motors, will open its league season this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, against the Marshall Legion team, at Liberty Park. No admission will be taken at the gate.

The Sedalia boys will enter the league game with seven straight victories and one tied game under their belts, with no defeats. The two pitchers to work on the mound this afternoon for Sedalia will be Johnson and Arnold with Mines and Cochran taking turns behind the plate.

The tied game was chalked up Friday night, when the Sedalia team played host to the Columbia team, which ended in a 2-2 score when the two-light engagement was called off in the eighth inning, due to rain.

In Friday night's game, Sedalia drew first blood in the third inning, and scored the second run in the fifth. Columbia's runs came in the sixth and seventh innings.

Leading hitters for Sedalia were Percival and Shawer, with three hits apiece.

Two-Man Duel in Fort Wayne Open

FORT WAYNE, Ind., June 3—(P)—Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago and Ed (Porky) Oliver of Kenmore, Wash., turned the $15,000 Fort Wayne open golf tournament into a two-man duel at the three-quarter point today.

Mangrum, a man in a rut, shot his third straight 67 to hold the lead at 201, but Oliver closed in on him with a 65 for 202.

E. J. (Dutch) Harrison of St. Andrews, Ill., had a scorching 64 one stroke off the course record and the best round of the tournament so far. His previous pair of 73s left him out of the running, however.

Bob Toski, 23-year-old unknown from Northampton, Mass., matched Oliver's 65 and had the best nine of the tourney, a 30 on the back nine. He pulled into a tie for fourth at 208.

Mangrum and Oliver appeared to have the tournament pretty much to themselves going into the final round tomorrow. There was a five-stroke gap between Oliver and their closest challenger, Buck White of Greenwood, Miss.

Favor Revising Motor Laws

Donald S. Lamm, of Sedalia, attended the 48th annual meeting of the board of governors of the Automobile Club of Missouri in St. Louis (Wednesday), at which Matt F. Morse was reelected president. Other officers reelected were Oak Hunter, Moberly; John C. Tobin, St. Louis; and Lou Holland, Kansas City, vice-presidents; J. A. Lewis, treasurer; and Gus Vahlkamp, secretary.

Morse announced that the board recommended a complete revision of Missouri motor vehicle laws to conform with the provisions of the uniform motor vehicle acts.

The uniform motor vehicle acts, many of which are not now in force in Missouri, provide for a rigid state motor vehicle operator's license, uniformity in signs and signals, pedestrian protection and, clearly defined rules of conduct in operating motor vehicles upon public highways.

The Auto Club is compiling the provisions of the motor vehicle laws of Missouri for the purpose of comparing them with the provisions of the uniform act. When this work is completed, specific recommendations for legislation will be made in order to have the Missouri laws conform with generally accepted standards designed to meet the motor vehicle problems of today.

Big Seven Won Annual Track Duel

Southwest was Favored to Win the Meet

DALLAS, June 3—(AP)—The big Seven defeated the southwest decisively tonight in the annual duel of champions track and field meet, rolling up 79 points to 52.

Five records were set as the Big Seven administered the most crushing victory of the four-year series.

It was something of an upset, the southwest having been favored to win the meet by a slim margin.

But the Big Seven boys swept four events and scored near sweeps in two more, being shut out only in the mile relay which the southwest, with a team of Bernard Place of Texas A. and M., Bobby Dillon of Texas, Arthur Brown of Rice and Tom Cox of Rice, won in a time of 3:14.7—a new record for the meet. The old record was 3:16.2 set by Texas A. and M. in 1948.

A Crowd of 3,500
A crowd of 3,500 watched the meet, run in clear, warm weather but with a stiff north breeze handicapping the sprinters and hurdlers.

In the four-year history of the meet, the big seven now has won twice, the southwest once and there has been one tie.

The brightest spot for the southwest was Charley Parker, Texas sprinter, who won both of the dashes as he closed his collegiate career. He did the 100 in 8.8 and the 220 in 21.3.

Parker was the only double winner and therefore was high point man of the night.

Records set included:
Shot put—53 feet 9 inches by Jim Allen, Colorado (old record 53 feet 8 1/2 inches by Rollin Prather of Kansas State in 1948).
Prather finished second tonight with 51 feet 5 inches.

High Jump—5 feet 7 3/4 inches by Bob Gordon, Missouri, and Vern McGrew, Rice (old record 6 feet 4 1/2 inches set by Henry Coffman of Rice and Tom Scofield of Kansas in 1947).

Pole Vault—13 feet by Don Cooper, Nebraska and Bill Carroll, Oklahoma (old record 13 feet 6 inches set by Carroll in 1948).

Two-mile Run—9:18.5 by George Fitzmorris of Colorado (old record 9:22.2 set by Jerry Thompson, of Texas in 1947).

There were some upsets. For instance Herb Hoskins of Kansas State beat out Charles Meeks of Texas in the broad jump with 24 feet 2 1/2 inches. Meeks had previously made 24 feet 4 1/4 inches. The University of Texas sprinters, Perry Samuels and Carl Mayes were shut out in both sprints by Harry Meginnis of Nebraska, Led Troilo of Kansas State and Bob Burke of Colorado.

Won By Inches
Bob Walters of Texas, who has high jumped 6 feet 8 1/2 inches, didn't even place in this event tonight. Fitzmorris, who finished third in the Big Seven Conference meet to Herb Semper of Kansas and Bob Fox of Missouri, won the two mile tonight by inches over Semper.

George Kadera of Texas A. and M., who has pitched the discus 162 feet 7 inches this year, was second to Prather, who got 151 feet 11 inches.

Several Southwest Conference stars did not show up for the meet. One of them was Bob Hall of Texas A. and M., conference champion in the low hurdles. Jack Greenwood of Kansas won this event in 23.5.

Roundup of Major Leagues On Saturday

Cardinals were Rained Out; Now One Game Behind

By RALPH RODEN

NEW YORK, June 3—(P)—Hal Newhouse, troubled with a sore shoulder throughout the spring and early part of the season, turned in another gilt edge pitching performance today as the Detroit Tigers defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 6-1.

The triumph was Newhouse's fourth straight and also his fourth complete game since he was pounded out of the box in his first start of the season on May 14.

Newhouse permitted the A's seven hits and lost his shutout in the ninth when Sam Chapman unloaded his sixth home run of the season.

The Tigers whacked Bobby Shantz for 14 hits in the eighth innings he toiled. Gerry Priddy paced the attack with three hits. Double-Header to Yanks

Despite Newhouse's victory, the second place Tigers lost ground to the league-leading New York Yankees, who took a doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox, 3-1 and 6-3.

Tommy Byrne outpitched Bobby Cain in the opener, which the Yanks won in the eighth inning when Phil Rizzuto smashed a two-run double to break a 1-1 tie. Al Kozar homered for the Chicago run in the sixth.

Joe Dimaggio was the big wheel in the nightcap. The Yankee Clipper drove in four runs; three on a 425-foot home run that landed in the left center field bleachers. Dimaggio connected off Bill Wright with two down in the seventh. The blow erased a 3-2 Yankee deficit.

Third Straight Victory
Fred Sanford started and received credit for his third victory without a loss. Sanford bowed out for a pinch-hitter in the seventh and Joe Page finished up.

The Boston Red Sox overpowered the Cleveland Indians, 11-9. The Sox scored six runs in the first inning before a man was retired, then fought off a Cleveland counter-attack that finally was stopped after Larry Doby banged a two-run homer in the ninth.

Mel Parnell opened for Boston but left in the fourth when the Indians tallied five times to cut the Red Sox' advantage to 8-7. The Sox came right back with three runs on homers by Tebbel and Williams. Al Papi, who relieved Parnell, was the winner and Mike Garcia the loser.

In National League
In the National League, the Philadelphia Phillies broke their second place tie with the St. Louis Cardinals and moved to within a half game of the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers by downing the Chicago Cubs, 6-2.

Rookie Rubba Church, with help from Veteran Jim Konstanty, gained his first major league victory. The Phils tagged six-game winner Bob Rush for five runs in the first three innings.

The Boston Braves, paced by Sid Gordon, crushed the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10-6. Gordon socked his 10th and 11th home runs and drove in seven runs.

Johnny Sain started for Boston and gained his eighth victory. He was relieved by Bob Hogue in the sixth. Hogue blanked the Pirates the rest of the way.

The scheduled games between the Cards and Dodgers; New York and Cincinnati and St. Louis and Washington were rained out.

Kansas; 3, Bob Fox, Missouri. Time: 9:18.5 (new record—old record 9:22.2 set by Jerry Thompson, Texas, in 1947).

Pole Vault—1, Don Cooper, Nebraska, and Bill Carroll, Oklahoma, tied, 14 feet (new record—old record 13 feet 6 inches set by Carroll in 1948); 3, Bob Walters, Texas, and Jack Simpson, Texas A. and M., 13 feet.

220-Yard Low Hurdles—1, Jackson Greenwood, Kansas; 2, Bill Bless, Texas A. and M.; 3, Ralph Person, Texas. Time: 23.5.

Fish Fry In One BIG Piece

Roy Burkholder, (left) 1022 West Sixteenth street, the 55-pound catfish (center) formerly of the Lake of the Ozarks, and Paul McMullin, (right) 914 Crescent Drive. The photo was taken Friday morning in Sedalia, after the three had returned from fishing Thursday afternoon, and the catfish accomodated them by getting on the line. The catfish was caught in a hole on the lake near the Burkholder cabin and gave the two fishermen a tussle for nearly fifteen minutes.

Burkholder who swims a little and McMullin, who doesn't do so well at the water art, had put out the lines sometime before and were riding around enjoying themselves when they decided to "run the line" just to see if they had anything, little expecting anything like what they found. When they began checking the line they thought at first someone had hung a submarine on one of the hooks.

When they finally had completed the capture, the victim weighed a little better than 55-pounds, measured 51 inches from tip to tip and appeared to be well fattened up for a good fish fry. Burkholder announced he would have it cut up and prepared for a "fry" for the boys.

Sedalia Chiefs Play at Moberly

The Sedalia Ban Johnson Chiefs will journey to Moberly late this afternoon for a night game at Moberly in a regular scheduled Ban Johnson League baseball game.

Approximately 15 players, coach and manager will depart from the Cal Rodger's service station this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock for Moberly.

"Big" Jim Egbert, righthand hurler will be on the mound for the Chiefs with either Whitworth or Barber behind the plate. Last season Egbert pitched a no hit game against Moberly, but the Chiefs still lost 2 to 1. The Chiefs defeated Moberly earlier this season by a score of 10 to 7.

No doubt, Moberly's ace hurler, "Corky" Schienen, lefthander, will be sent in tonight to face the Chiefs, who are holding down second place in the Southern Ban Johnson League with four wins and two defeats.

This Wednesday night under the lights of Liberty Park, the Chiefs will play host to the Mexico team, which is leading the league with four wins against no losses.

Sedalia Cubs Are Having Troubles

Manager Says He Is Dissatisfied With Some Players

Sedalia's semi-pro baseball team, the Cubs, have had a bumb season thus far, and it is the hope of team members, officials, supporters and semi-pro followers, that things will be ironed out soon, at least before the Semi-Pro State Tournament opens, which will be held in Sedalia the latter part of July.

For awhile, it was doubtful whether Sedalia would have a semi-pro club this season, let alone a team to represent the home town in the state tournament. However, a group of baseball minded got together prior to baseball season, and got things rolling by holding meetings, in an endeavor of organizing a semi-pro club.

First Handicap
Their first handicap, as always for a new organization was the money situation. That part was taken care of by a few merchants in town, who put up the cash to purchase new uniforms, and other equipment needed to run a club.

Then officers, such as a manager, business manager, publicity man to book the games, etc., and a scorekeeper were appointed. Prospects looked bright for the semi-pro team.

So finally, the newly formed Cubs were equipped with uniforms, a manager, and were ready to play ball, but lacked good baseball players. The officials then started weeding the city for baseball material, looking mostly for pitchers and infielders and finally found enough players to whip up a team. Shortly afterward, two or three local prospects decided they would play out of town.

The present team is composed of players who are playing mostly for the sport of it, and with the exception of a few, they are playing without pay. Several of the players, helped organize the team, in the interest of keeping semi-pro ball alive in Sedalia.

Lacking Crowds
Slim crowds have gathered at each home game played at Liberty Park. This could partly be due to the weather, which has not favored the Cubs thus far. Their top drawing game with the House of David was rained out, and the following Sunday, an out of town game was rained out, thus sinking the financial status lower for the team's purse.

The Second Annual Rose Show Roses On Parade' Huge Success

A show of unusual beauty was the "Roses On Parade" given Friday afternoon and evening by the Sedalia Rose Society, at the Elks Club and was attended by hundreds of Sedalians and many from out of town throughout during the hours of 1:00 to 9:00 p. m.

The winner of the perpetual award, a silver bowl, which was presented this year for the first time went to John Schlaffer, the first president of the Sedalia Rose Society and the first Sedalian to become a member of the American Rose Society. Mr. Schlaffer won with 52 points, the next three in number of points being Mrs. P. L. Strole, 38 points; Mrs. C. L. Carter, 36 points; and Mrs. H. C. Sammons, 29 points. The bowl will be kept by Mr. Schlaffer for one year and will be awarded each year to the winner of the Rose Show for one year.

The medals offered by the American Rose Society were presented the following winners: First, gold medal, to Mrs. Herbert Seifert, Sedalia, for the rose, Forty-Niner; second, silver medal, to Miss Laura Kuse, Smithton, for the rose Frau Karl Druschke; and third, the bronze medal, to Mrs. C. L. Carter, Sedalia, for the rose, Curly Pink.

Judges in the show were members of the Kansas City Rose Society, Mrs. Clifford B. Smith, Mrs. William S. Gorman and Mrs. A. G. McWhirter. Mrs. Smith brought to Sedalia a number of large and very beautiful roses from her own garden in which there are 350 bushes. Some of the roses were the newest roses on the market.

The "Roses on Parade" which represented a miniature circus parade of floats and animals was arranged by Mrs. Frank Hayes, and attracted much attention and comment. Rose arrangements for the various seasons of the year were featured as well as different countries.

Mrs. A. A. Ferguson was chairman of the show, with Victor Gill as co-chairman.

Big Week Ahead For K. C. Blues

St. Paul and Minneapolis, two baseball clubs hotter than a wagon load of firecrackers invade Blues Stadium, Kansas City, to battle the Blues five nights, Monday through Friday. It will be ladies' night Tuesday and Friday.

St. Paul, defending champion, is on the march again after a slow start and plays Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Minneapolis, currently in second place, furnishes the opposition Thursday and Friday.

The Blues are confident and prepared. Big John Mize and Billy Martin, late of the Yankees, are on a batting spree and the rest of the players are following their lead. Mize blasted home four runs against Columbus the other day and rapped his first homer. It was a 420 foot drive over the right-centerfield fence. The same day, Martin produced four hits in five trips.

Manager Joe Kuhel is well satisfied with his pitching and is particularly well pleased with the work of Ed (Whitey) Ford, southpaw and Lew Burdette, right hander. Both are youngsters.

Following the St. Paul and Minneapolis assignments the Blues go on the road until June 28.

Bunny Brief Faces Ballots for Hall of Fame

Bunny Brief, hero of the Blues almost 30 years ago, is setting a fast pace in the balloting to determine the number one name on the Blues Hall of Fame. With two weeks to go before the voting closes, Brief has 4,400 votes. Pat Collins, former Blues catcher and a resident of Kansas City, Kansas, is second with 650.

The player elected by the fans will be guest of honor Centennial Night June 29, in Blues Stadium when the Blues play St. Paul.

Other favorites include Joe Hauser, Frank McGowan, Eddie Pick, Glenn Wright and Jimmy Zinn.

The ballot box closes June 15. All former Blues now retired as a player are eligible. Votes should be forwarded to Blues Hall of Fame, Blues Stadium.

Cards-Brooks Plan To Break Tradition

ST. LOUIS, June 3.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers plan to break another baseball tradition with Sunday night baseball July 16, it was announced tonight.

A day Cardinal-Dodger game already is on the books. There will be two admissions for the day-night Sunday affair.

"The movies, Municipal (summer) opera, legitimate theater, basketball and hockey operate on Sunday night, and I see no reason why we shouldn't play baseball then, too," Saigh declared.

Saigh quoted Rickey as saying: "Yes, we are in the entertainment business, too."

Re-Scheduled Game for Athletics and Browns

Says Imports Took Away Jobs

NEW YORK, June 3.—(P)—Sen. James P. Kem (R-Mo.) said last night that British and Italian shoe imports under the Marshall Plan had taken away the jobs of 1,200 shoe workers in Missouri.

Kem debated with William L. Batt, former chairman of the War Production Board, on the Columbia Broadcasting system's "People's Platform" television program.

Kem said "counterpart dollars" built up in Marshall Plan countries encouraged the shoe imports.

He brought to the studio 1,200 letter from Missouri workers complaining that they lost their jobs because of the foreign imports.

Batt, now president of S. K. F. industries, said all the shoes imported from Italy and Britain were "only a spit in the ocean" compared with the American shoes exported abroad.

"But if I go back to Missouri," Kem retorted, "and tell those 1,200 unemployed not to worry, that the shoes they make are only a 'spit in the ocean,' I am sure there would be some changes in the political representation at the next session."

Batt said the "counterpart dollars" don't go to the foreign manufacturer "to enable him to undersell in our markets" but to the foreign government which uses the dollars to buy American products.

"If we are not going to allow foreign countries to sell to us and enable them to build up their industries," Batt said, "eventually they will be able to buy nothing from us and our foreign markets will disappear."

Chevrolet Coach of Bill Hert is Stolen

Bill Hert, 706 West Fourth street, parked his car in front of the police station at Second street and Osage avenue, Friday afternoon. About 4:00 o'clock, an hour later, when he went to get his car it had disappeared.

An officer standing in the doorway noticed the car but did not know it was Mr. Hert's, but recalled seeing a well dressed young man walk down the street, get in, start the motor and drive off. A

Gov. Smith is Censured by GOP Editors

Resolutions Condemn Him for Not Calling A Special Session

JEFFERSON CITY, June 3—(AP)—The Missouri Republican Editorial Association adopted a resolution Friday censuring Democratic Gov. Forrest Smith on two counts.

(1) It charged he was afraid to call a special legislative session for fear it might investigate the murder of Charles Binaggio, Kansas City northside Democratic leader, and involve some of the governor's friends.

(2) It censured him for failing to let the legislature consider the financial plight of St. Louis, pass a law opening universities and colleges to negroes and pass a strong drivers' license law.

Feared K. C. Investigation
"It is generally assumed and reported," the resolution said, "that the failure of the governor to call the special session was through fear that the legislature might investigate thoroughly the Binaggio murder and other murders and the stranglehold the gambling and crime syndicate had upon the second largest city of our state, and the rackets, political and otherwise that netted the political-crime overlords $34,500,000 a year."

Such an investigation, it added, "might involve some even closer friends of the governor."

At another point it said the Association censured the governor "for his failure to thoroughly investigate the Kansas City affair and bring the guilty to justice no matter who they may be or how close they might be to the governor."

Annual Meeting Today
The resolution was offered by Rep. Meredith (Pete) Garten, Republican legislator from Lawrence county.

Since the slaying of Binaggio and his henchman, Charles Gargotta, on April 5 the governor has appointed a new Kansas City police board and ordered it to enforce all laws. He could not be reached immediately for comment on today's resolution.

The association meeting was a preliminary event to the annual convention here tomorrow of the Missouri Federation of Women's Republican Clubs. Mrs. E. Wyatt Payne, president of the West Virginia Federation of Republican Women's Clubs, is the principal speaker at a luncheon.

United Press Strike Ends Tonight

NEW YORK, June 3—(AP)—A 23-day strike by AFL Teletype operators against the United Press was settled Friday on the basis of a $2.21 a week general wage increase.

The Commercial Telegraphers union agreed to send its 265 striking operators and maintenance men back to work at midnight Saturday.

The union said the company agreed to add $1.19 a week to the wages of operators who work before 7 a.m. or after 7 p.m.

The company did not reveal any figure but said it adjusted the night differential to match an agreement between the CIU and the International News Service.

In addition, the U.P. agreed to reinstate the union shop and to pay the operators $2 per month toward the cost of hospitalization.

The union said the package agreement added up to a gain of $3.90 a week.

The company did not estimate the overall cost.

The U.P. said the settlement terms—except for the night differential—were the same as those turned down earlier in the week by the union.

Base pay before the strike was $90 for a 37½ hour week.

The union originally demanded a $15 a week wage boost. They dropped this to $6.50 at one point in pre-strike negotiations. The company's best pre-strike offer was an increase of $2.21 a week.

The operators walked out across the nation May 1. The United Press said it kept its service operating during the strike through

Dallas Takes Diabetes Test to People In Mobile Public Health Project

MOBILE DIABETES LABORATORY now making the rounds of Dallas is the first such testing unit in the nation.

By ROGER BOATWRIGHT
NEA Special Correspondent
DALLAS, Tex. (NEA).—For the first time in the nation, a five-minute screening test for diabetes has been taken to the people by the Dallas City Health Department.

Dr. Hugh L. C. Wilkerson, chief of the Diabetes Branch of the U.S. Public Health Department, says the Dallas project is the only mobile testing unit in the United States.

"It is estimated that two per cent of the nation's population have diabetes," he says. "One per cent are known diabetics. The other one per cent are diabetics who do not know they have the disease."

"By taking the tests to the people, the search for the unknown diabetic is greatly aided."

The mobile unit, housed in a trailer, goes to the various suburban shopping centers of the city. During a home show, the free tests were offered to the crowds that turned out to see the latest in homes and home furnishings.

A doctor, a nurse, a nutritionist, two laboratory technicians and two volunteer workers staff the mobile testing unit. Persons tested wait the five minutes it takes to determine the results.

The quick tests are made possible by a Hewson Clintron, mounted in the trailer. The Clintron is a machine that can make the diabetic screening tests at the rate of 120 an hour.

Only a few drops of blood are necessary for the test. The blood sample is placed in a special test tube. A small amount of water is added to the sample, and the test tube is put in the Clintron.

The machine automatically heats, drops in four reagent tablets as they are needed and cools the sample. Completing the test cycle, the machine discharges the test tubes to the "completed" rack ready for reading.

If there is no suspicion of diabetes, the blood sample solution turns blue. A suspicion of diabetes is indicated by a colorless solution.

The reagent tablets used by the machine were developed by Dr. Wilkerson and Erich Heftman, Ph. D. These men also made it possible for inexperienced volunteer workers to man the Clintron.

Results of the tests are recorded on an identification card that the person being tested has filled out upon applying for the test. The cards are numbered and the test tubes carrying the blood sample through the testing process bear a corresponding number.

A nurse on duty with the unit gives the results of the tests. If a test turns out positive, the subject is referred to his family physician for further diagnosis and treatment.

Dr. Wilkerson says, "In taking the diabetic test to the people and offering them the opportunity to be tested, control of the disease is aided by early detection."

New Motels On Highway 50

After extensive building in the eastern portion of the city "Sedalia is expanding westward." On west Highway 50 inside the city limits and on west are numerous recent additions.

The most recent construction is that of Morris El Rancho, a 22-unit all modern motel, situated on the south side of Highway 50, about two miles west of Sedalia. The motel, which was opened for business on May 15, is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Wess Morris, who have had five years' experience of operating a motel in Sedalia.

Mr. Morris purchased 22 acres of land last winter from B. A. Fischer, and the construction work started on the motel January 1, 1950. E. E. Lingle was the contractor, and is now in the process of building the Morris' a new five-room home, just west of the motel. There is plenty of acreage where the motel is erected, and if need be, more units could be added.

The ranch style motel, which is furnished with South Carolina hard oak furniture, is erected on cool, quiet surroundings, some distance away from the noise of the highway traffic. Inside the units are tile floors, enameled baths, a soft bed and other comfortable furniture, which would suit the taste of any traveler. In the winter time, the rooms will be heated with forced hot water heat, provided from a central heating plant located in the rear of the courts, as well as a deep well, which will give ample water supply for the entire court usage.

As long as there is a vacancy, tired weary travelers are welcome to drive up to the courts any time during the night and obtain a room, as the motel will be operated on a 24-hour basis. Mr. Morris' brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Morris, formerly of Lake Andes, South Dakota, will assist the owners in operating the motel, and will make their home west of Sedalia, together with their son and daughter, David and Beverly Anne.

Mr. Morris said work would start Monday on construction of an office and living quarters and a small gift shop in the center of the court, surrounded with a semi-circle driveway, which will be seal coated in the near future. They also contemplate in decorating the outside of the units in the fashion of the motel's name, El Rancho. The outside of the units are white, with dark stained gable ends and stained posts with concrete porches, which puts one in mind of a ranch house. There are colored porch chairs placed on the porches.

Mr. Morris said all construction workers were of Sedalia, and as much furnishings for the units were purchased from local stores. All the building supplies, such as lumber, paint, plumbing, etc., were brought from local dealers. The owner said he predicted a great business for the motels in Sedalia, and in his opinion, the new motels (two others being constructed just east of his) will attract many travelers, who might otherwise continue to pass through the city and spend their money in some other town. "We pledge ourselves to run a clean respectable place" is the Morris slogan.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris recently returned from a two-month trip in the west, making a two-month study of motels.

You Won't Bounce on Rubber Roads, But They May Stretch Highway Life

NEW STRETCH: This looks like almost any other asphalt road paving operation, but all those extra engineers and officials are on hand because it's the nation's first stretch of rubber road on Route 250, Virginia, put down in a U. S.-wide test.

By Douglas Larsen
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — If you do any cross-country driving on your vacation this summer, chances are you will find an experiment which holds promise of revolutionizing America's highways.

Certain sections of key highways around the country have been paved with asphalt which has been mixed with rubber. As you ride over these test sections, you'll probably never know it. Even if you fall out on the rubberized section you won't bounce or be able to tell the difference. It'll even be harder than usual, the engineers hope.

It's an experiment that will take many years to finish, since the promised benefits will take a long time to prove. The great hope is that the use of rubber will reduce the cost of maintenance on the roads far below the initial cost of the rubber.

Here are some of the advantages claimed for the rubberized road.

Laboratory tests have indicated that the rubber aids asphalt's resistance to rapidly changing temperatures, sun's rays and water. Water is the most efficient destroyer of asphalt roads. It seeps in from above and beneath and tends to separate the sand and gravel from the tar substance which binds them all together.

Rubber in the asphalt, it is expected, will increase its ability to take big jolts without forming bumps. It will keep it from melting in the hot sun and from becoming brittle in the winter.

The driver will get some immediate benefits, it is predicted. A rubberized road is supposed to be less slippery, both wet and dry and to be resistant to ice formation.

Although rubber roads will be something new to the U. S. this summer, one section has been undergoing observation for many years in Holland, on a highway just outside Rotterdam. Germans ran most of their heavy artillery equipment over it during the war; so did U. S. forces in shoving the Germans out. In spite of this extra-heavy use, the road is in perfect shape today and still requires no maintenance.

In the U. S., however, different types of asphalt are used. Difficulties in finding the right blend held up U. S. road tests until this year.

Powdered rubber is used. There is disagreement as to whether natural rubber or synthetic is best, but independent engineers say that either would probably be satisfactory if the general idea is proved sound.

On a test section laid just outside of Richmond, Va., it cost an additional $900 per mile to add the rubber. It is a road 30 feet wide, which normally would have cost $6000 per mile to cover with asphalt.

This additional cost is small, however, if it could result in a substantial cut in the nation's highway maintenance bill, which last year was $900,000,000.

Million New Grads Begin Job Hunt; Face Toughest Search In Many Years

AND THEN TO WORK? Nearly 500,000 college graduates like these will leave campuses this month along with 600,000 high school grads, for the toughest job hunt in many years.

By DOYLE SMEE
NEA Staff Correspondent

More than a million brand new graduates of America's colleges and high schools are starting to pound the sidewalk in search of their first jobs. But the search may be tougher than graduates have faced in many years.

Day after day they're being told: "You may have to lower your sights a little, to take a smaller salary than you had in mind. You may have to take a job in another field than the one you've trained for and have your heart set on."

Ewan Clague, U. S. Commissioner of Labor Statistics in Washington, believes most of this year's graduates will eventually find jobs, because they have youth and often special training on their side. But some may be added to the ranks of around 3,500,000 Americans now out of work.

Altogether the Bureau of Labor Statistics expect 1,700,000 youthful job-seekers will be added to the market during June. Nearly 500,000 are college graduates and another 600,000 high school graduates. The remaining 600,000 are young people—not yet graduated—who are dropping out of both college and high school to look for work.

Says Clague: "Business is going to be swamped with applications from a bumper crop of high grade prospects."

Shortages have turned into surpluses in many lines of effort. Engineers, chemists, physicists, accountants, business administration specialists, personnel workers, lawyers, reporters and college and high school teachers are in over-supply.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here's the first of two dispatches on the job prospects of 1950's bumper crop of college and high school graduates, and how they can make the most of their job hunt.

But there's still a big demand for doctors, nurses, dentists, dieticians, health technicians, grade school teachers, social workers and salesmen.

College placement bureau confirm government testimony. At the University of Illinois, the placement director sees 25 per cent fewer jobs for college men this year. Harvard reports demand down about the same degree. From state universities in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Washington, California, the forecast is similar.

Further evidence comes from business itself. The General Electric Company, typical of many large firms that recruit engineers and other technical workers from college campuses before graduation, is hiring about a third fewer this year than last.

Because engineers are so plentiful, the company has a hard time recruiting. Says Robert E. Dieck, who does the job in the Cleveland area for G. E.: "Our representatives are spending many more man-hours this year to elect qualified people. For every one hired, we have interviewed about 30 persons."

An automobile manufacturer who is taking on from 150 to 200 June graduates this year reports that it hired quite a few more than that in 1949.

General Motors Corporation, on the other hand, is one of the few big concerns employing about the same number of college graduates in 1950 as it did last year.

From a steel corporation comes this statement: "Things are tight, particularly in the job brackets the boys want to get into."

An oil company said it has no real need for new men, but probably will keep its long-run youth recruiting policy going.

Northwestern University, surveying the job plans of 131 companies (none small), found they are hiring 20 per cent less engineers and 25 per cent fewer people in other fields. Only in sales and marketing are more graduates being taken on.

Business and industry seem to have pretty well filled the job gaps created first by the war and then added to by booming post-war expansion. Business growth is slower now, and personnel turnover is diminishing. More workers are staying put.

On the graduates' side, the 1950 college crop is the biggest ever. It's the last great wave of veterans who have been studying under the G.I. Bill of Rights. For comparison, the total is more than double the pre-war peak of 213,000 in 1940.

Educators don't expect the present level to be maintained in the years immediately ahead. They look for a minimum of some 300,- 500 college graduates a year, with totals rising gradually toward 500,000 by 1960.

So hereafter a college degree will bring less of a premium than it used to in job hunting. But the very fact that graduates will be more numerous will make it harder to get jobs without degrees. In the 1950-60 decade, the competitive job struggle for young newcomers promises to be just about the toughest on record.

An opportunist, in politics, is one seeking immediate advantages with little regard for principles or ultimate consequences. Among the small fry politicians the opportunist among acquaintances and in a narrow field of operations is easily recognized and discounted. His rewards are usually meager.

But in the broader field of national politics and administrative functions, the public seems reluctant to label as opportunists those who speak with tones of authority.

On one hand we hear the preachments of the advocates of tax and tax, spend and spend; and on the other the same gentry extol to the people the principles of thrift in support of government bond sales.

From the same mouths come these inconsistent, honeyed appeals—spend your money for national prosperity, save it for personal thriftiness.

Our national opportunists—how we love them!

The majority of Americans expect war by 1955, but when two such military and administrative leaders as President Truman and General MacArthur declare that "a shooting war is not imminent," their opinions should ease public tension. Something's Happening in the Shipping Room

I Do Not Enjoy Being Called A Liar

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON.—Some people seem to be laboring under the impression that I enjoy being called a liar. Thick-skinned as I am supposed to be, I do not.

I particularly do not enjoy being called a liar by Senator Taft as he virtually did the other day after I reported that he entered into a deal with the southern bloc to deliver six Republican votes to continue the filibuster. I do not enjoy it because I like Taft and consider him a healthy influence in government; second, because it gets me in wrong with my wife. Mrs. P. happens to think that Taft can do no wrong—a state of affairs which, unhappily, she does not always believe applies to her husband.

In this case I tried to argue with Mrs. P. that her idol from Ohio should at least exercise some originality. After all, I have been called a liar by such celebrated figures as President Roosevelt and the Senator from Ohio could certainly have found more descriptive language. One of the fundamental requirements of a politician is imagination, and in this case Senator Taft did not even show the imagination of Harry Truman.

In all seriousness, however, I should like to point out that it's the easiest thing in the world for a public official to hurl the charge of liar at a newspaperman; but it's something else again to make it stick.

By way of illustration, perhaps I may be forgiven if I call the roll of those who have called me a liar—or worse—and let the public decide who told the truth.

Early Russian Friction

CHRONIC LIAR—President Roosevelt's famous epithet of "chronic liar" was given in the late summer of 1943 after I reported that Stalin was irate because Cordell Hull had failed to consult him regarding the preliminary terms for the Italian surrender.

In view of subsequent events, probably FDR and Secretary Hull might wonder why they ever bothered to deny a story that friction was developing with Russia. But at that time they were anxious to give every appearance of complete cooperation with Russia, and the story was denied first by Mr. Hull, then by President Roosevelt, who also threw in the "chronic liar" crack.

Six months later, March 1944, confirmation of the story began to appear when Stalin demanded one-third of the Italian navy, and it became known that he had designs on the Italian colonies and was intent on breaking up the British-French control of North Africa and the Mediterranean. And with every passing month, the wartime friction between Russia and the United States has become more obvious.

I am not arguing that Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Hull may have had excellent diplomatic or military reasons for their caustic statements. At this moment we are only concerned with the truth.

Vaughan and SOB

S.O.B.—President Truman gave a new twist to the conventional charge of "liar" when he dished out the label "S-O-B" after I had criticized Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan for accepting an Argentine medal at a time when dictator Peron was attempting to get a large loan from the U.S. government.

Since then, Congress has refused to let Vaughan have his Argentine medal, Peron has got $125,000.000 from the Export-Import bank, and a Senate investigating committee found Vaughan guilty of all sorts of irregularities, such as putting race-track construction ahead of veterans' housing; doing unusual favors in return for deep-freezers; demoting Army officers because they tangled with John Maragon; and trying to increase grain quotas for whisky distillers at a time when grain was crucially needed in Europe.

In the end, the Senate committee rendered an official report indicating, in official and eloquent language, that General Vaughan might be vulnerable to verbal aspersions himself.

SENATOR ELMER THOMAS of Oklahoma also hurled the "liar" charge when I reported, May 6, 1946, that he had been speculating in cotton through his wife. Two years later an Agriculture Department report officially confirmed his speculation.

CONGRESSMAN PARNELL THOMAS—Denied kickbacks and called me a liar, but is now in jail.

JOHN MARAGON—Called me a liar for exposing his operations, but is now in jail.

TANFORD RACE TRACK EXECUTIVES—Called me a liar and threatened a libel suit when their violation of housing regulations (in connivance with General Vaughan and John Maragon) was exposed. They went to jail.

PATENTRE TAX FRAUD—Attorney Ellsworth Alford called me a liar and wrote newspapers threatening a libel suit. Later, his clients pled guilty and paid a million-dollar fine.

CONGRESSMAN ANDREW MAY—Called me a liar over the Erie Basin munitions fraud. He and the Garsson brothers went to jail.

DESTROYERS TO ENGLAND—When this column reported in 1940 that the United States would trade 50 destroyers to England for island bases it was categorically denied by the White House; then officially confirmed two weeks later.

SENATOR LUNDEEN—When Senator Lundeen of Minnesota was killed in a mysterious airplane crash in 1940, I revealed that he was en route to deliver a pro-Nazi speech written for him by George Sylvester Viereck, a paid agent for Hitler. Senators Wheeler and Bennett Clark immediately delivered scathing speeches on the Senate floor and hurled the liar charge. Later, Viereck was prosecuted for being a German agent, and during the course of the trial it developed that he had written Lundeen's speeches. He went to jail.

LOUISIANA SCANDALS—When bribery and corruption was charged by this column regarding Gov. Richard Leche, Democratic national committeeman Seymour Weiss and various of the old Huey Long gang, the charge of liar echoed all over Louisiana. But, in the end, all the officials named went to jail.

These are some, though not all, of the people who have called me a liar.

Now I don't want to give the impression that I consider myself always right, because I'm

The LONESOME BRIDE

By Grace Nies Fletcher

THE STORY: In order to get evidence to clear her father, who had been accused in two murders, Gloria Brown has agreed to bring a pie, in which a stolen necklace has been hidden, to Mrs. Gordon, her former next-door neighbor. But now a fugitive from police, Gloria expects resistance on the part of the fireman and is trying to find a gun to force them to talk at her meeting. Someone has been following Gloria and has just forced her, spilling the contents of her purse on the sidewalk.

XVIII

THE person who had pushed Gloria Brown, and who had presumably opened the clasp on her purse, was after the necklace that much Gloria knew. But who? The "Benches"? Lefty Gordon?

"Which way did he go?" Sammy the probe-donned, doubling up his fists, his own face tortured at the fear on hers.

"It's nothing," Gloria gulped. "The clasp just came undone." After this, in broad daylight, she had to have a gun for tonight. "Come on, Sammy, let's go."

As they started toward the Park, she kept glancing right and left, looking for a familiar face, yet half-afraid she'd see one. It would be a comfort to know Hansen was near, but he wasn't hear her talking to Sammy about the gun.

"Keep walking," Sammy advised as they came inside the Park entrance.

They made a strange-looking couple, the girl in her stylish indigo-green suit that spelled exclusive shop, sauntering along in her hand-made high-heeled sandals, and the newsboy with his shapeless slacks flapping about his skinny legs.

"I need a knight, Sammy," she told him. "Did you ever read about the Knights of the Round Table? Well, I do not need a knight in armor like Sir Launcelot, but I need the armor!"

"Come again, I don't get you," said Sammy, puzzled.

"I need a gun!" Sammy whistled, but he did not ask her why she wanted one, she whose husband as he must know from the paper was already wanted for murder; nor did he ask why she couldn't get one herself; none of the obvious questions. He merely accepted the fact that his lady was in distress and needed his help.

"My old man's a night watchman," he told her slowly. "but I dunno. . . . He keeps his gun in a drawer in his dresser in his bedroom so the kids won't get it. I dunno if he's asleep yet. But tomorrow . . ."

THE hand Gloria laid upon his skinny, little boy arm was shaking in spite of all she could do. "If I don't get a gun tonight, my picture may be in your paper tomorrow," she told him grimly. "Very—dead."

He was off like a shot, calling back as he ran, "I'll bring it to your apartment!"

"No, Sammy, wait." She ran after him breathlessly, stopped him to plan. "It wouldn't be safe. Too many policemen. I'll be in your corner at a quarter of 9 tonight. Okay? It's a matter of life and death, Sammy," she warned.

Sammy turned an anguished white under his freckles. "Okay," he managed to say. He looked very small as she watched him go through the great gates of the Park, running for fear his old man would be gone with his gun. A very small person upon whom to pin her hopes for safety and maybe Millard's hopes for freedom, but Gloria had no one else.

At 8.15 o'clock that night, Gloria had finished dressing for her desperate adventure. She wore a dark blue suit, with a dark blue scarf tied over her bright hair. She also wore dark blue sneakers.

"The Shadow," she giggled, looking at her own small figure in the mirror. Except for occasional curves here and there, she might well be a pal of Sammy the newsboy.

She added a blue suede bag in which to carry the gun and a pasteboard box in which reposed the precious pie.

Gloria cautiously opened her living room window and let herself out onto the fire escape. She flattened herself against the dark wall of the building.

The court, on which the lights shone down from the apartment house windows was a weird checkerboard pattern of black and white and it looked very far below. But she could see no one there.

SHE shifted the box and bag to her left arm so her right hand would be free to clutch the railing of the fire escape. The bag, slung over her shoulder, bumped against her legs and the stairway seemed to have developed vast empty spaces through which it might be easy to fall at a moment.

She clutched the pie closer, hoping that no one would look from his window and yell: "Peeping Tom!" This pie already had brought death to two people and it might well bring the end to her if the wrong persons were waiting at the foot of the fire escape. Lefty Gordon, for instance.

"Oh gosh!" she gasped as the last section of the fire escape started moving. It was sort of a ladder which let down when a person's weight was on it. Like most such gadgets, it stuck and she as she fumbled awkwardly, it came down with a rude "Clang!"

She waited fearfully, wondering if it would be better in case of discovery to leave the pie on the fire escape or to hurl it through the nearest window and run. But all she could hear was the usual bedlam of blaring radios and an announcer's voice inquiring loudly: "Do you have that awful pain in your kidneys? Take . . ."

She crept on down the ladder and ran as fast as she could on her silent sneakers feet across the court and into the alley beyond and then stood very still, scarcely daring to breathe, for on the sidewalk at the end of the alley were two dark figures, waiting. Policemen? Hansen?

not. Being human, I make mistakes. But on important issues I simply can't afford to make them too often.

Having got steamed up on this subject, I have exhausted my quota of space in today's paper without discussing my differences with Senator Taft; so I'll have to come back to that in a future column. After all I've got to get that straightened out for the sake of harmony in the Pearson family.

Still Plenty to Be Done In Streamlining Government

By Bruce Blossat

Vital streamlining of the federal government still has a long road to travel.

Thanks to a late spurt in Congress, we made more progress this year than it seemed we would. But that doesn't obscure the fact we should have done a lot better.

In one big batch President Truman submitted 21 reorganization plans, most based fairly closely on the recommendations of the able Hoover Commission which studied the problem exhaustively. The Senate killed five and the other 16 are now in effect.

Offhand that score looks good, but the results need to be analyzed a little. Former President Hoover, who headed the commission, says only one of the 21 plans calls for major surgery on a government department. That's the one putting the Maritime Commission into the Commerce Department.

The Hoover group recommended 18 major administrative shifts. Three others, besides the Commerce Department change, have already been approved. They include reorganization of the State Department and unification of the armed services. But that still leaves 14 to be acted on.

Not until these are instituted can the government begin to realize the efficiencies and economies promised from this great streamlining program. Savings of perhaps $3,000,000,000 annually depend on carrying the plan to completion.

Mr. Hoover does not appear to be worried because some of Mr. Truman's proposals vary from the commission's. "The President has the right and duty to present his own ideas in these matters," he says.

What does trouble Mr. Hoover is the kind of opposition some plans have aroused. Proposals for realigning the Treasury, the Agriculture Department, the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Federal Communications Commission were killed. Mr. Hoover is said to feel pressure groups worked hard against returns that would affect them, while shouting loudly for all the others.

Too many senators appear to have yielded to these pressures. Moreover, they have argued inconsistently in defense of their negative action. They have charged that the plans represent a "power grab" for Mr. Truman. Insofar as they call for a clearer line of command and a centralization of administrative responsibility, this could be said of all the Hoover Commission proposals.

With the exception of the President's backdoor effort to amend the Taft-Hartley law by "reorganizing" the office of NLRB general counsel out of existence, the defeated plans should be submitted again. And action should proceed forthwith on the 14 remaining major operations recommended.

Toward all of these the Senate and House should take a constructive, statesmanlike attitude. If they do not, congressional spouting about federal waste and inefficiency will have an empty sound for a long time to come.

DISCIPLINING OUR TIME

We now turn to the discipline of our time. A lawyer who was in one of our meetings said to a friend at the close, "I've had my insides sandpapered today." All of us need our insides sandpapered by the sandpaper of discipline to make us burnished and fit. We must be reminded that this is an undisciplined generation. It would translate the first line of the twenty-third psalm into, "The Lord is my chauffeur; I shall not walk." As someone put it, "The Church faces a generation which is trying to drink its way to prosperity, war its way to peace, spend its way to wealth, and enjoy its way to heaven." It can't be done. We must discipline everything about our lives, especially our time.

In the words of Wesley, that master user of time, "Never be unemployed and never be triflingly employed." As Paul expressed it, "redeeming the time, because the days are evil." In photography we are told that the picture depends not only upon what you put into it, but also on what you leave out. Your capacity to say "No" determines your capacity to say "Yes." You have to say "No" to lesser things in order to say "Yes" to greater things. Life depends upon elimination as well as upon assimilation. Someone asked a successful college president what was the first qualification of a college president, and he replied, "A wastebasket." I go into many homes and hotels, and the first thing I look for is a wastebasket! Throw away things that do not contribute.

I believe in recreations when they re-create. But when they kill time and exhaust you—let them go. Someone has defined "bridge" as "an assault on time with intent to kill." If you kill time, you kill yourself, for you are a part of time. Dr. William Osler, the great surgeon, used to tie the knots in a string while riding in a street car, to prepare himself for quick tying in the crisis of an operation.

My father and my God, I want to be ready for the moment of my highest use, some great moment that shall call for my best. Help me every moment to get ready for that supreme moment. Help me to be prepared by getting ready every moment. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Music Modes

THERE are few critics, who at one time or another, do not refer to a talented artist with phrases like—"her interpretation was xxx xx etc." Now that proposes some questions: What is an artist's interpretation composed of? Where does it originate? And why and what degrees are there of interpretation?

It might be answered with the explanation that music is composed of eight factors: melody, harmony, tone color, dynamics, rhythm, tempo and nuance. With these eight components, a composer can add no more to his written work that might assist in the final result of what he wants his music to possess. The warmth, and real emotion and other intangible ingredients must be captured by the artist. When he does this and brings the desired qualities out in his playing or singing of a particular number, his interpretation can range anywhere from good to artistically extraordinary. That's interpretation!

In jazz music, there are possibly five attitudes. The so called "attitudes" are more or less the interpretation in the more popular idiom. These attitudes do not exist, at least not so predominantly, in classics or even semi-classics; and this is caused by the lack of a actual free way of the compositions; i.e. in classics the artist, musician or what have you, follows the printed music closely, so he or she may obtain every possible effect the composer desired to have incorporated in the artist's finished product.

The five attitudes are labeled: Blues, the Romantic, the Lyric, the Decadent and the Protest. The Blues depict exactly what their name implies, a simple direct personal sadness, without posturing or posing. The Blues are the moods and memories of the past or the living present. The attitude of Romantic is full of grandeur and is characterized by sweeps of sound and with an outlook of breadth and picturesqueness. The Romanists' music reflects the happy moods with dramatic pauses and arpeggios.

The Lyric's music is sharp and clear and gives a highly personal expression. The lyric attitude is restrained; yet it retains its intensity. Attitude number four is the Decadent. The decadent, according to top jazz music experts, is deterioration and decline of the personal spirit. This attitude is difficult to express, because it is one of those body-less forms of music that must be heard to understand it. It can vary from white-heat intensity to a lessening of the intensity of life by softness and calm relaxation. Maybe bop comes along here some place?

The final emotional attitude is the Protest. It's direct, like the blues, precise, clipped and it even depicts a vicious attack on life. It is often the unconscious expression of the artist's reaction to his everyday living conditions. It must be understood that the outlines of these various moods could hardly hope to lay bare all the subtle overlappings of a so richly various expression of jazz. These five attitudes can very well be applied to the classics, only with less success and point.

In the Friday evening Democrat, on the front page, there was a story headed, "Be-Boppers; New Rival Gang." That's another blow to the beat and bruised battle worn new music called bop. Some people will attribute the attitudes of the teen-agers to the music of the same name and it will have one more mark against it.

At first, the few musicians who were playing the new music couldn't get an audience with conventional appearances, so they pretended to lose their razors, grew beards, wore heavy horn rimmed glasses, wore outlandish clothes and developed a language that fitted with the revolutionary sounds of their music.

All of the costuming detracted from the music greatly and it stopped, for the average music listener, being anything but a joke or a novelty. Now we have a herd of rampaging teen-agers smacking each other in the nose and, as the article reads) "hanging outside school or community dances, start fights and then steal the girls away from their beaten escorts." They have assumed the name of "Be-Boppers." Is bop to blame for their escapades? It is doubtful, but never the less such flareups do not add to the merit of bop. And that's a pity, too, because it really has considerable importance in the modern music field; whether you dare admit it or not.

Be Sure That Husband Shares Interest in Your First Home

Memo to June brides:

Get your husband interested in the first home you share, even if it is just a tiny apartment, if you want him to take as much pride in your home as you do.

It may be a temptation to go ahead and furnish your home exactly to suit yourself and then sit back and bask in your new husband's approval of what you have accomplished all by yourself.

But your home will belong more to the two of you if you get your husband interested in helping you make selections, decide on color schemes and so forth.

After all, when you start showing your house or apartment to your friends, you want your husband to feel the same sense of pride and accomplishments in itly what you would have chosen, that you do. An che can't do that unless he has some part in the planning of it.

Make Home Partnership Affair

The wife who can, when she does, takes guests through her home, ever you like."

say "This was Bill's idea" or "Bill refinished this chest himself" or "Bill and I both like modern" makes a home seem much more like a mutual accomplishment than the wife who takes all the credit for everything that has been done.

Furthermore, a man really has a right to have his home express something of himself. The big, strong type of man whose frilly-minded wife decorates their home to suit her personality certainly isn't giving her husband the kind of background he would choose for himself — and yet that is the background he has to live with.

So get your new husband interested in helping you plan your home and don't veto every suggestion he makes that isn't exact-pride and accomplishments in itly what you would have chosen, that you do. An che can't do that unless he has some part in the planning of it.

Trout Poachers Clean Up
LONDON — (AP) — Highly-organized gangs of poachers are making fortunes raiding trout and salmon streams of England and Scotland. To get the fish which they sell in London and other cities they use explosives, poison and electrical devices to stun the fish, says a committee set up by the secretary for Scotland.

Many of the poachers are making $200 a night by raiding salmon and trout, the committee says. To break up poaching the committee suggests watchers for rivers and lakes, confiscation of equipment, including cars and boats; wider powers to search and license for dealers in salmon and trout. Now the maximum penalty for salmon or trout poaching is $14.

Museum To Get Buffalo Bill's Rifle

CODY, Wyo. —(AP)—The rifle that Buffalo Bill used in his adventures in the west will be given to the Cody Memorial Museum here. In real life, Buffalo Bill was William Frederick Cody. The rifle he used in real life as a pioneer scout in the west is now in the arms collection of Walter F. Siegmund, an official of the Winchester Repeating Arms Co. The Cody museum was founded by his niece, Mary Jester Allen. Siegmund will present the rifle to the museum July 4 during the Frontier Days celebration.

Trout Poachers Clean Up LONDON — (AP)—Highly-organized gangs of poachers are making fortunes raiding trout and salmon streams of England and Scotland. To get the fish which they use explosives, poison and electrical devices to stun the fish, says a committee set up by the secretary for Scotland.

Many of the poachers are making $200 a night by raiding salmon and trout, the committee says. To break up poaching the committee suggests watchers for rivers and lakes, confiscation of equipment, including cars and boats; wider powers to search and license for dealers in salmon and trout. Now the maximum penalty for salmon or trout poaching is $14.

Substitute Needed to Stop The Kid Gangs

Hitching rides on trucks, like these youngsters are doing below, is a lot of fun to them. But will this gang's idea of fun end at that, or will it go on to stealing cars? Left on the street, boys like these can easily drift into juvenile crime. What can be done about them is discussed in this, the last of four dispatches on America's teens on the ramp.

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent

Trying to curb juvenile gangs is like trying to stop forest fires. In both cases, you're dealing with a highly combustible raw material that must be preserved.

You can't chop down all the trees, although that would stop the fires; and you can't imprison all teen-agers, although that would stop delinquency. But there are things that can be done so that the chances of a severe blaze are minimized.

One of Brooklyn Assistant District Attorney John E. Cone's pet annoyances is the ease with which anyone can purchase ammunition. "You can go into any department store down the street," he says, pointing out the window, "plunk down 52 cents, and buy a box of .22 shells. Anybody can do it. No questions asked."

He thinks the sale of ammunition should be strictly regulated. Each prospective purchaser should be required to show a license for a weapon; should give his name; should be issued a permit for the ammunition—and that permit should be filed with a responsible agency.

"If the kids can't get bullets, they can't shoot anybody," is Cone's logical argument.

Even more essential, there are things to be done for children in general, and children in crowded city slums in particular.

"The kid gang is a product of the streets," Cone says. "If the youngsters are kept off the streets—if they are given someplace to go and something to do as a substitute for the poolroom and the beer parlor—the kid gang won't have any reason for existence."

Specifically, here are some of Cone's recommendations, contained in a report he made to the Kings County District Attorney:

1. Stricter control over sale of "crime and horror" comic books and paper-covered novels dealing with crime. Cone says one novel, on sale at newsstands for a quarter, details how to make home-made pistols, how to conduct gang warfare, how to mug, and other choice tidbits for attentive children. Comic books openly carry ads for toys like air pistols, which fire steel darts, and "accurate" throwing knives.

2. Assign policemen in bad areas. They'll be able to search "girl auxiliaries" for gang-fight weapons.

3. Have shop teachers in schools be on the look-out for students making guns and knives as shop projects.

4. Strict supervision of crime movies and crime radio and television programs.

5. Of prime importance is the establishment of adequate recreational facilities—both indoor and outdoor. The children must have someplace to play, in winter as well as summer. Much has been done, but more still needs to be done.

6. Establishment of more "teen-age nightclubs," such as have been organized in some cities. This gives the teen-ager a place to go for dancing and refreshments—sort of, of course. Where these places exist, children find them more fun than a hot street corner.

7. The facilities of churches should be made available for sports, games, clubs. Cone has found some ministers reluctant to open church basements to children, because they are fearful of resultant damage to their property. "However," Cone's report states, "the cost of decoration and repair is insignificant when compared with the good it will accomplish."

8. Still on the subject of religion, Cone says, "Religion should be emphasized and reemphasized."

because crimes are seldom committed by those who have a deep sense of moral and religious standards. A religious society is a law abiding society."

9. At the crux of the matter, of course, is proper housing and slum clearance. A long range, but necessary step, Cone feels. Inadequate housing is at the root of much of the trouble. The Chicago Housing Authority, for example, surveyed one slum area, where a new public housing project was to be erected. The delinquency rate (including juvenile) was 39.2 per cent, against a city-wide average of 9.1.

10. The facilities of schools should be kept open to students until at least 10 in the evening—another point in the keep-them-off-the-streets philosophy.

There were other points, too, but they all revolved around that same basic theme—if the teenager has something wholesome to do, someplace wholesome to go, he won't become a delinquent.

One of the nation's leading authorities on juvenile delinquency, James R. Dumpsion, writes that "The aggression and hostility of the delinquent reflects his neglect, his lack of affection, his rejection by his family, neighborhood and community."

Remedying that neglect and rejection is the crux of the problem. Keeping children off the streets by giving them some substitute is an immediate, tangible help.

Of course, there have been other suggestions offered as cures. A British judge, for example, thinks the whole problem could be licked there by reviving the public whippings with a cat o'nine tails.

Others feel the gang framework should be kept, but their activities redirected into wholesome channels. Parents are at fault, reason a large bloc of experts, and they must be instructed in how to be good parents and must be punished if their child gets into trouble.

Another suggested remedy, in New York, is to bring back the "beat" patrolmen, who gave way to radio-patrol cars a few years back. The present set-up, it is felt, keeps the police aloof from valuable personal contact and tends to mollify delinquents.

Five Wives A Confusing Situation

Poet Regards Himself As A Samson In The Toils Of A Delilah

NEW YORK, June 3—(P)—Poet Louis Untermeyer, a fast man with a figure of speech and a veteran of five marriages to four women, regards himself as a Samson in the toils of a Delilah.

His first wife, the former Jean Starr, disclosed this self-description by the millionaire poet today—only 24 hours after Untermeyer himself said he felt like a squeezed orange.

The cause of the 65-year old poet's distress is a lawsuit by the third Mrs. Untermeyer, formerly Esther Antin, to have herself declared his present and only legal wife. She says a Mexican divorce obtained from her is invalid.

Untermeyer, a portly, bouncy man with thinning gray hair, now is living with the fourth Mrs. Untermeyer, the former Bryna Ivens.

Miss Starr testified that Untermeyer came to see her after the third wife filed her suit.

"He said to me: 'I wonder if you can help me. She (Esther) has threatened to ruin me. She has threatened to bring the temple down about my ears the way Delilah did with Samson,'" Miss Starr said.

(Unlike Untermeyer, Samson had long, flowing hair. The old Testament records that he lost his vast strength after Delilah gave him a haircut by trickery. Later he caused a temple to collapse on himself and the Philistines inside.)

Miss Starr said she told Untermeyer she would help him "if there was any decent way."

Untermeyer contends he never was legally married to Esther Antin—formerly a Toledo, Ohio, judge—because his Mexican divorce from Miss Starr wasn't valid.

"You know, don't you, that Mr. Untermeyer is taking the position that he is presently married to you?" Edith Antin Untermeyer's lawyer asked Miss Starr. "No, it is my understanding that he is asking the court to determine that," Miss Starr replied.

The lawyer, Eugene M. Porter, asked Miss Starr what she and the poet would do if the court should rule they are husband and wife.

"We haven't discussed that," she replied.

Untermeyer himself says he's not sure which of the women is his legal wife. "I am legally confused," he testified earlier. "I be-

Ex-Marine Admits Killing His Aunt

PORTLAND, Me., June 3—(P)—Police said last night that William W. Elwell, 19, husky East Sullivan ex-marine, admitted he had brutally bludgeoned his well-to-do aunt, whose body was found earlier in a watery ditch.

Elwell is charged with the murder of Mrs. Viola Tully, 56, of Melrose, Mass. He will be arraigned in Portland municipal lieve I am married to Byram Ivens."

He also expressed the view that his third wife "thought there was a few drops in the orange left to squeeze and that she wanted more money."

Untermeyer first married Jean Starr 43 years ago. They were divorced. He married Virginia More, then divorced her and remarried Miss Starr. Again divorced from Miss Starr, he married Esther Antin. Finally, after another Mexican divorce, he married Miss Ivens in 1948.

State supreme court justice Benedict D. Dineen, who heard the case without a jury, reserved decision.

Dancing Teacher Held On a Robbery Charge

FULTON, Mo., June 3—(P)—Eldon Baugh, Moberly dancing teacher, was bound over to circuit court Friday for trial on a charge of armed robbery.

The 24-year-old Baugh was arrested May 26 after he surrendered to state highway patrolmen near Ashland, Mo. He is accused of robbing a hitch hiker of $23.

Notice for the bizarre assault, Meade said, was to get possession of Mrs. Tully's car. Elwell told police he wanted to drive to an air force training field in San Antonio, Tex.

The weapon used in the beating, Meade said, was a dresser—used to glaze iron. It is a one-foot-long metal instrument with a series of small wheels and two prongs on one end.

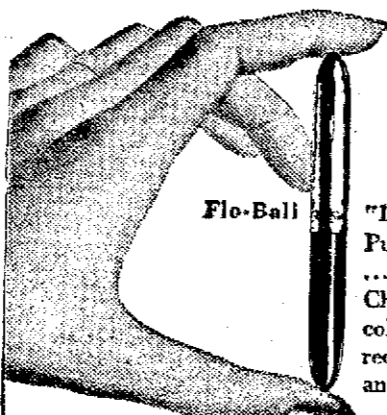

Elwell, who first denied he killed his aunt, was captured here at gunpoint.

Mrs. Tully's Melrose neighbors reported late last night they saw her car being backed hurriedly from the garage after hearing screams.

the lesson of all champions—to do hard things the easy way.
Good luck,
Hal Boyle.

NEW YORK, June 4—(AP)—Certainly you can be an interesting conversationalist.

Yes, you can. Don't mind the snickers of your family and friends. Don't listen to them at all.

In fact, if you are going to be a really interesting conversationalist, you can't afford to listen to anybody else. For if you stop talking and listen to another person you cease to be interesting yourself—and the other fellow becomes interesting. You can't put up with a thing like that, can you?

Many people will tell you today that the art of conversation is lost—that it died in the drawing rooms of the Victorian period. Others say that the movies killed it. Still others claim it was wearily struggling when television came along and drowned it out.

Actually they are all wrong. The art of conversation is still alive. The real trouble is that many people no longer think it is worth practicing. They figure that if they open their mouth an opinion might come out—and today it is more polite not to have opinions. Somebody might not like them.

This desire to avoid saying anything and yet to be in the society of one's fellow man is responsible for the present popularity of cocktail parties. There people can nod at one another and mutter through their martinis or merriment through their Manhattans. But if you listen carefully what do you hear? Only bubbles.

Practically everyone who speaks at all today begins by saying, "this is off the record," or else he is running for public office. Even housewives say things like, "well, this is off the record, but I am sure Mrs. Jones hasn't had her windows washed for at least three months."

So the first lesson you have to learn if you are going to be an interesting conversationalist is to throw caution to the winds and come out boldly and say: "Folks, this is on the record. Have you noticed how warm it is lately?" Ears will perk up all over the place. Daring always gets attention.

And that is another point: To be an interesting conversationalist, you must get attention.

This is indeed more and more of a problem. Suppose you are visiting friends, and there somebody is—sitting silently glued before a television set with dead sardines in their mouths and classes of watered redeyes in their hands.

You can't very well walk over and shut off the machine. But you can stagger out into the center of the room, grab the pit of your stomach and fall on the floor. Naturally, the hostess will switch on the lights to see what happened.

Then you simply rise and say, "a taxi driver the other day said an interesting thing to me—'And everybody will sit back and listen. What else can they do—run? Not with an unfinished drink in their paws.'"

The only real peril is, you may meet another modern pioneer like yourself—somebody who wants to converse, too. How to deal with him? Just pull out a pair of earmuffs and put them on. He may shut up or he may act indignant and go home. In either case you have won—you have the floor. It doesn't really make much difference then what you say. People will be charmed to hear a real human voice again, and they will hear you through if you do nothing but recite the alphabet backwards.

The world is that homesick for any conversation that doesn't come out of a box.

Lot's of Mugs

In 80 years ending in 1940, 94 U. S. patents were granted on different shaving mug designs, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

John Miller Upholstery Shop Celebrates It's 10th ANNIVERSARY in business in Sedalia

Although Deaf, John Miller Has Served the people of this Community Well!

His Wife, Tempie Miller, also deaf, Assists him in his work. His Mother, Mrs. Wilma Clark, has helped in the building and operating of the business.

Handicapped, Johnnie Miller has operated his Upholstery Business in Sedalia for the Past Ten Years.

(The first portion of this article is re-produced from the Sunday Democrat-Capital, July 1, 1943)

"In his little shop at 613 South Engineer avenue, you will find Johnnie busy at work upholstering furniture. He wouldn't hear you come in because Johnnie can't hear, but he would smile when he saw you, and there is a genuine friendliness in his smile. That is why he has been so successful in business. He radiates friendliness. He has a sunny disposition, an eagerness to do what is right, a willingness to serve. He loves children and they love him. He is an inspiration to all who know him.

Johnnie Miller was born in Montserrat, and when he was four months old he had pneumonia meningitis which left him deaf. He received his education in schools for the deaf, four years in Kansas, seven years in Pennsylvania and was graduated from the school at Fulton. For four years the family resided in Sedalia, living in the ten hundred block on East Third street. They left here in 1917, and those who were neighbors then remember Johnnie yet. He was a favorite with them all and his happy smile left a lasting impression.

When Johnnie was graduated from the school at Fulton, it was in the depression years and work was hard to get, even for boys who were not handicapped. In 1935 the family moved to Sedalia and Johnnie went to work for Richard M. Battles. It was while working for Mr. Battles that the state took up Johnnie's case for rehabilitation of handicapped persons. He had already received some training in upholstery and wood finishing in the schools he had attended, and the state sent him to Kansas City for a nine months training course in upholstery. He returned to Sedalia, and in 1940, with only a needle and a pair of scissors he opened an upholstery shop at 307 South Engineer. That way wasn't easy. His mother, Mrs. Wilma Clark, couldn't help a great deal until he could get started, but she did provide food and shelter. But the business prospered and little by little he added to his equipment.

On June 24 of this year, which was Johnnie's thirty-third birthday, he moved into his new quarters. He had purchased the former office building of the Milton Oil Company. Here he has his shop, machinery to help him with his work and in part of the building a comfortable home for himself and his mother.

Seven years have passed since the above article appeared in the Democrat-Capital telling the people of this area about Johnnie and his life and work, and those have been happy years for Johnnie, his mother and the last three years for his wife too.

Yes, Johnnie was married three years ago to Miss Tempie Wells, of Richmond, Missouri, who is also handicapped through the loss of hearing and speech. She was a school mate to Johnnie at Fulton, and when Johnnie's business prospered to the point where he was financially independent he proposed and was accepted.

Mrs. Miller besides doing her housework helps Johnnie with his upholstery work and is an expert at slip covering. Johnnie through his sign language conversation with his mother—his interpreter—said to tell the people of Sedalia that his life was a busy and happy one, and to thank all of the people of this community for their help and many kindnesses.

No Settlement Reached In KDRO Strike Dispute

received their experience. These KDRO strikers came direct from school and have had no commercial radio experience elsewhere.

"The strike itself was called on forty minutes' notice, Friday, May 12th.

"The statement has been made by the strikers that management refuses to arbitrate. We respectfully submit the fact that the strikers placed this station in that position. Frantic efforts were made by management to avoid the walkout in those short forty minutes, by calling our National Association in Washington to have it intervene.

"The only demand we did not agree to arbitrate, was this wage demand which we know is presently more than adequate. After the walkout, many calls went back and forth to Washington. The idea was to have the strikers return while we arbitrated. Management needn't have been off the air more than six hours, but it took a heavy loss in an effort to get the engineers back on the job, so that local people could arbitrate. I am so-called 'peace' committee as deeply regret that the strikers did not see fit to agree with my suggestion that representatives of the local union be consulted in these negotiations. Finally, in despair the strikers were given until one o'clock Sunday to return while we arbitrated. Richard Doherty, labor expert in Washington, worked diligently night and day to attempt to achieve this return. Finally, twelve o'clock Sunday arrived and passed with no recognition from the strikers. Inasmuch as the Federal Communications Commission rules and regulations require a licensed radio station to remain on the air for public interest, convenience and necessity, it was up to management to come to some decision. More telephone calls to Washington ensued. Mr. Doherty thought that with more time, he could achieve something. So the time was extended another day. Not to have them forfeit their demands, but only to have them return during arbitration.

"It was necessary that KDRO return to service. The public was clamoring for certain programs to which they had become accustomed and radio silence had to be broken. KDRO then signed an employment contract with two engineers and went back on the air. These new employees are experienced engineers who like Sedalia and would enjoy making their homes here. The longest service of any individual strikers at KDRO is three years.

"Management submits to you that it has never sided with any group. In fact, KDRO heretofore offers to Sedalia labor a weekly half-hour at no charge, to tell the labor story to the public. We would sincerely enjoy having such a program as a part of our public service.

"On your part, I am certain that you are in accord with me that Sedalia should not be known as a place where labor demands more than the normal market, or its growth would be hindered.

"May I ask, in the name of fair play, that your thinking be tempered with justice in the light of the above facts, and be assured that, if you and your group recognize and appreciate the position in which station KDRO has been placed by acts of certain individuals, I am and always will be ready to meet with you at any time.

Respectfully Yours,
Milton J. Hinlein"

Confidence is Given Stephens

GOP Women Endorse Donnell And Kem's Records

JEFFERSON CITY, June 3.—(AP)—Howard V. Stephens, Republican national committeeman from St. Louis, won a vote of confidence today from the Missouri Federation of Women's Republican clubs.

So did Mrs. Estelle Tanner of Jefferson City, national committeewoman for Missouri Republicans, and Mrs. Bernice Blocher of Kansas City, president of the state federation. Mrs. Blocher's two year term ends next year.

Stephens' future as national committeeman has been the subject of speculation since he said recently in St. Louis he would resign unless factions in the party quit squabbling and pulled together.

At the time E. K. Gaylord, St. Louis industrialist, was picked by a so-called "peace" committee as Stephens' successor. Since then, Stephens reportedly decided to stay on as national committeeman.

Today's vote of confidence by the women's group was regarded as evidence supporting that report.

Stephens thanked the women for their resolution with a broad hint he would stay on the party job. He pledged that he would forget personalities and would work with everyone in the party in both the 1950 and 1952 elections.

Endorsed Work Of Phares
The G. O. P. women also endorsed the work of William F. Phares of Maryville, chairman of the state committee. Phares, too, has been caught in recent party strife. Mrs. Alberta Green, state vice-chairman, was included in the resolution with Phares.

After a bit of discussion the women endorsed "the record" of U. S. Senators Forrest C. Donnell and James P. Kem. At first it appeared an effort was being made to give the federation's full backing to Donnell, up for re-election this year. But the change was made when someone suggested Donnell has primary election opposition this year.

The resolutions also urged "more fair representation in the caucuses and the conventions of the Republican party" for the women. It cited the work they do and the votes they cast for the party.

The women—who do most of the doorbell ringing in the precincts—long have been dissatisfied with the relatively minor roles assigned them by male party leaders.

Another resolution commended a new "school of politics" sponsored by the Republican national committee. It was set up by Mrs. Betty Farrington, president of the National Federation of Women's clubs.

Mrs. Betsy Weeks of Kansas City was chairman of the resolutions committee.

Mrs. Jessica Wyatt Payne of Huntington, W. Va., principal speaker at the closing session of the convention, urged Republicans to use truth to "defeat the new deal, fair deal Communist-Socialist combine."

Mrs. Payne is head of the Federation of Republican Women's clubs of West Virginia.

Military Flash To be Curtailed
ST. LOUIS, June 3.—(AP)—The annual 35th Division reunion parade to be reviewed by President Truman here next Saturday will be a patched-up affair, minus the usual military glitter.

Peter S. Miravalle, president of the reunion group, said today he had received a letter from the defense department announcing that military participation in civilian events has been barred in the interest of economy.

Miravalle said he took this to mean that personnel and equipment of the air force, coast guard, army and navy—slated to participate—must be deleted.

He added, however, that national guard troops would try to fill in the gap. Units of veterans' organizations also will be in the parade.

The letter to Miravalle said Secretary of Defense Louis A. Johnson had ordered the "downhold." Miravalle said he "accepts the disappointment in good spirit."

Johnnie Miller, Deaf, Happy With Wife and Business

Johnnie Miller is leading a very busy, and happy life, despite the fact that illness as a child left him deaf and unable to carry on ordinary conversations with people. This has not prevented him however from having a good business and the love and romance that comes with a normal life.

It was a little more than ten years ago that Johnnie came back to Sedalia, where he had lived as a little boy, to start in the upholstery business. It was at 307 South Engineer avenue that he first started up, just a couple of blocks from where he used to live on East Third street. He had learned upholstering at the School for the Deaf at Fulton, and that wasn't all that the school provided for Johnnie. It gave him the opportunity of meeting Temple Wells, also deaf, from Richmond Mo., who was a student there, too.

Wife Able Assistant
Temple may not have taken up upholstering there, we don't know, but after Johnnie's business began to flourish and he purchased his own shop at 613 South Engineer avenue, he decided it was time to propose to Temple. He did just that three years ago and they were married. Since that time Temple not only has become an excellent housekeeper and cook but she became, also, an expert at making slip covers.

Although neither talk by voice nor do a good job at conversation on their hands and Johnnie's mother, Mrs. Wilma Clark, who also lives in an apartment where the store is located does the talking to the customers.

Richard Battles, for whom Johnnie worked after coming out of school, interested the state in Johnnie for a rehabilitation of handicapped persons which gave Johnnie an opportunity to become the real professional in upholstery that he is today.

And so it is with pride that today, Johnnie, Temple and Johnnie's mother are celebrating the tenth anniversary of a very successful business for which they are very grateful.

Truck And A Taxicab Collide
A 1948 yellow cab number 223 driven by Edward J. Benn, 23, 601 North Quincy avenue, and a 1941 panel Chevrolet truck driven by Bernard J. Imberger, 509 East Fourth street, were involved in a collision at the intersection of Broadway and Osage avenue at 11:20 Saturday night.

Neither of the drivers were injured but one passenger in the cab, Herman Dietl 73, route 4, Sedalia, received serious bruises on his left arm. He was taken to the Woodland hospital where Dr. H. O. Wilbur treated him.

The drivers were unable to reach an agreement at the scene so they were taken to the police station where both posted bond to appear in police court Monday morning.

The truck was owned by the Bennett Brothers Refrigeration company and sustained slight damages to the side.

The cab was damaged in the front to about the extent of $150.

Springfield Gains In the 1950 Census
SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 3.—(AP)—Springfield, the state's fourth largest city in the 1940 census, has gained 10,871 since then.

O. F. Keller, district census supervisor, said tonight a preliminary report showed the population figure to be 72,109 as compared with 61,238 in 1940. Part of the increase was due to an extension of the city limits which brought in 5,807 persons.

Gain In Clay County
ST. JOSEPH, Mo., June 3.—(AP)—A population gain of more than 45 per cent is indicated for Clay county.

Third district census supervisor Gus Hillix said today the tentative final figure for the county shows a count of 44,161 as compared with 30,417 in 1940.

Says Cut Lessen Tax Burdens
KANSAS CITY, June 3.—(AP)—Jesse M. Donaldson, postmaster general, said today the recent cuts in mail service were made to lighten the taxpayer's burden.

The cabinet member said the economy move is not an effort to get the postoffice into the profit margin.

"The cuts were made in compliance with a directive from Congress," he said. "There has been a feeling for years that some essential services should be curtailed so the users, instead of the taxpayers, could make up the deficit."

Speaking at a centennial day meeting, Donaldson said city mail deliveries were reduced to one a day because Congress knocked $70,000,000 off the postoffice appropriation.

"The rural routes and many suburban routes have been getting only one delivery a day for years," he added. "This move equalizes the service."

Donaldson said 40 congressmen wrote him protesting the curtailment of service, then they "voted for an amendment that would cut out appropriation still further."
